7.2 Custom Calling Features

7.2.1 Feature Description

Custom Calling Features are services provided through Company central offices. Customers can choose from the following custom service additional features.

Call Forwarding Variable - allows subscribers to redirect all incoming calls to another telephone number. This service uses a courtesy call so the Customer can notify the party at the "forward to number" that calls are going to be redirected to their number.

Call Forwarding Busy Line - automatically redirects incoming calls to a pre-designated telephone number when the customer's line is busy. The customer must designate the destination number at the time the order for service is placed. Changes to the destination require a service order.

Call Forwarding Don't Answer - automatically redirects incoming calls to a pre-designated telephone number or to a voice mail (First Line) service when the Customer's line is not answered within a specified amount of time. The customer must designate the destination number and forwarding interval at the time the order for service is placed.

Requests for changes in the forwarding interval placed within thirty days of service installation will be completed at no charge.

Call Forwarding Ring Control - allows the customer to alter the number of rings or cycle before a call is forwarded to the number specified to the customer when placing the service order

Remote Activation of Call Forwarding - allows the Customer to activate or deactivate Call Forwarding Variable from a telephone other than the one to which the service is assigned.

7.3.1 Feature Description

CLASS features are available to subscribers of Basic Exchange Line on an "a la carte" basis where service capabilities are available.

Automatic Call Back (ACB) - automatically redials the telephone number of the last outgoing call. If the number being called back is busy Automatic Call Back will alert Customer with a special ring when the line becomes clear.

Up to 30 ACB requests can be queued for each subscriber. A request is removed from the queue either when the switch places a call to the called party or when the monitoring period for the request ends.

The system will attempt to monitor the called line(s) for up to 30 minutes. When both stations are idle, the switch will notify the subscriber with a distinctive ringing tone. The feature activation can be cancelled by the customer when desired.

Automatic Recall (AR) - allows Customer to receive notice of the number of the last incoming call and at the subscriber's option, automatically return that call (whether the call was answered or missed).

Selective Distinctive Ringing / Call Waiting – provides a distinctive ring pattern and call waiting tone, if applicable, to the subscriber for up to thirty-two specific calling telephone numbers.

Selective Call Forwarding – allows the customer to transfer calls from up to thirty-two calling numbers to a specified forwarding number. Calls from lines not in the subscriber list (or of unknown origination) will not be forwarded.
