ORDER

On March 24, 1998, Kentucky CGSA, Inc. ("Kentucky CGSA") filed with the Commission a motion to extend the period in which it is, pursuant to KRS 278.020, required to construct the facility for which it received a certificate of public convenience and necessity on April 23, 1997. As grounds for its motion, Kentucky CGSA cites delays resulting from its inability to obtain from the Federal Communications Commission ("FCC") the necessary permit.

KRS 278.020(1) states that the authority conferred by the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity expires within one year from the date of its issuance "exclusive of any delay due to the order of any court or failure to obtain any necessary grant or consent...." The grounds for Kentucky CGSA's motion are precisely those provided by the statute. Accordingly, the motion to extend the time in which construction must commence should be granted.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the period in which Kentucky CGSA is required to exercise the authority granted to it in this case is hereby extended until 90 days after Kentucky CGSA's receipt of all required permits and approvals from applicable government agencies including the FCC.

Done at Frankfort, Kentucky, this 1st day of April, 1998.
