

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of:

GENERAL ADJUSTMENT IN ELECTRIC)
AND GAS RATES OF LOUISVILLE GAS) CASE NO. 8924 AND ELECTRIC COMPANY)

ORDER

On January 16, 1984, Arco Metals Company, et al., ("Arco") filed a motion requesting that Louisville Gas and Electric Company ("LG&E") be compelled to provide its counsel with a second complete set of filed materials. The motion states that Arco's counsel is without a set of materials because the set provided by LG&E was shipped to a consultant in another state. Arco's counsel alleges that since he represents five industrial customers he would be entitled to five complete sets of all filed material, but he is only requesting two sets. The motion further requests that the name of Arco's consultant be placed on the service list to insure that the consultant receives materials in a timely fashion.

On January 18, 1984, LG&E filed a response objecting to providing Arco with a second set of materials. LG&E's objection is based on a claim of unreasonable burden and cost associated with reproducing the voluminous material.

Based on Arco's motion, LG&E's objection thereto and the evidence of record, the Commission is of the opinion and hereby finds that it would be unduly burdensome in this proceeding to require LG&E to provide a second complete set of all materials to Arco. The Commission further finds that it is inappropriate to place the name of Arco's consultant on the service list, but each party should have the right to designate the name and address to which data responses shall be sent.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Arco's motion for a second complete set of materials be and it hereby is denied.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that responses to data requests shall be sent to each party at their address appearing on the service list or to any other name and address so designated by that party.

Done at Frankfort, Kentucky, this 1st day of February, 1984.
