A six (6") inch gas line was installed by Defendant on Plaintiff's property (mobile home park) to a depth of only six (6") inches. Installation of the gas line causes an immediate danger to residents of the mobile home park because Defendant failed to properly install the gas line to the required depth of thirty (30") inches below surface. The pipe line parallels the main road inside of the mobile home park which is heavily traveled by residents and other parties visiting the park.

The roadway that the gas line parallels has not been altered either before or after Defendant's installation of the gas line.

Plaintiff has been directed by the Ashland-Boyd County Health Department to improve the drainage condition of the subject road by installing a twenty-four (24") inch catch basin to correct the drainage problem.

Defendant has failed and refused to correct the depth of the gas line in order for Plaintiff to comply with the directive of Ashland-Boyd County Health Department to improve the road drainage condition.
