RE: KY PSC CASE NO. 04-413

We received your inquiry this morning and are pleased to report that extensive negotiations, review of proposed agreements, and due diligence efforts have led the parties to reach agreement in principle on the collocation of Cingular Wireless antennas on two EKN towers. (Cingular calls these the "Penny" and "Brainard" sites.)

The last item of due diligence that Cingular Wireless needed prior to execution of the collocation agreements was a resolution from EKN authorizing signature by its authorized officer. We received the resolution today from EKN counsel. Cingular will be presenting collocation agreements to its authorized officer in a matter of days and then through its counsel tender these documents to EKN counsel for signature by its authorized officer.

Cingular Wireless, as a means of promptly informing the PSC of our progress, will report to the PSC within 21 days of today as to status of complete execution of the collocation agreements and we presume EKN will be willing to do the same. At such time, the parties will be in a position to request the PSC to take appropriate further action in this proceeding and the PSC will be in a position to consider what further action it should take.

Please let us know of any questions or comments or if anything is required of Cingular Wireless at this time.

Dear Mr. David S. Samford, General Counsel for the Kentucky Public Service Commission:

East Kentucky Network is pleased to report that the parties anticipate finalizing the two colocation agreements within the next few weeks.

Since East Kentucky Network last provided the Kentucky Public Service Commission (the "Commission") with an update in the above-referenced case, East Kentucky Network has been working steadfastly to provide Cingular Wireless with a host of documents requested by Cingular Wireless prior to execution of the colocation agreements, including NEPA Reports for the Brainard and Penny sites. East Kentucky Network provided Cingular Wireless with the last of these documents today. East Kentucky Network now awaits finalized, executed copies of the the two colocation agreements from Cingular Wireless. East Kentucky Network will provide the Commission with a status report in this case twenty-one days from today.

East Kentucky Network appreciates the Commission's attention to this matter. If you have any questions, or are in need of further information or documentation from East Kentucky Network, please let me know. Thank you.
Sincerely,
Holly C. Wallace
