Date Received: July 13, 2005
Response Due Date: July 22, 2005

KyPSC-DR-03-002

REQUEST:

2. Refer to page 2 of the June 30, 2005 "Supplemental Filing in Support of Application" ("Supplemental Filing"). ULH&P states that it conducted its own consumer research by interviewing 42 randomly selected customers.
  - a. Explain in detail how the sample size of 42 was determined. Include all assumptions and calculations used to determine the sample size.
  - b. Page 1 of 13 of Attachment A to the Supplemental Filing states that "Individual interviews were conducted with 42 ULH&P residential gas customers..."
    - i. If that statement is accurate, explain why only gas customers were interviewed in light of the fact that ULH&P has proposed fixed bill tariff riders for both its gas and electric operations.
    - ii. If the statement is inaccurate, how many of the customers interviewed are combined electric and gas customers? How many are electric only customers or gas only customers?
  - c. Based upon the most recent customer information available, indicate how many of ULH&P's customers are combined electric and gas customers, how many are electric only customers, and how many are gas only customers.
  - d. Explain in detail how ULH&P concluded that a sample size of 42 customers was reasonable for this consumer research.
  - e. The description of the customers goes on to say that all research participants "...represented a mix of age, income and gender." Provide a breakdown of the 42 customers by age and income groups.
  - f. The description also states that all participants were compensated for their participation. Provide the amount of compensation that individual participants received for their driving costs, time and/or inconvenience.

RESPONSE:

- a. A random sample of customers was generated from the customer billing system. This random list is provided in the attachment in Excel format at Attachment KyPSC-DR-03-002 (a). From this list of random customers, the market research agency (SIRS, Highland Heights KY) dialed randomly to recruit 62 customers to participate, at least 20% of which were to be current budget bill customers. From this recruited group of customers, 42 customers showed up at the facility and completed the interviewing process.

- b. The statement was inaccurate in referencing only gas customers. The Fixed Bill program applies to both gas and electric customers. Within the research sample of 42, there were 17 electric only customers and 25 combined gas and electric customers. There were no gas only research customers within the random sample.
- c. As of June 27, 2005, there were 3,799 electric only residential budget bill customers. This is 8% of the total ULH&P electric only customers (46,883). The research study contained 17 electric only customers, 5 of whom were on budget billing, which equates to 29%. The marketing research firm was instructed to obtain at least 20% of their recruited customers as budget billing customers, to insure that ULH&P had enough respondents that were knowledgeable and experienced with more than one type of billing option. Hence, the percentage of customers overall that were expected to be on budget billing is higher, by design, within the sampled population than within the population at large.

As of June 27, 2005, there were 1,487 gas only residential budget bill customers. This is 9% of the total ULH&P gas only customers (15,652). There were no gas only customers that completed the survey.

As of June 27, 2005, there were 12,777 combined gas and electric residential budget bill customers. This represents 19% of the ULH&P combined gas and electric population (66,262). There were 8 customers surveyed that were both gas and electric customers out of 25 total surveyed customers, which equates to 32%.

- d. ULH&P attempted to balance research costs against increased sampling precision in the study. The research strategy and plan went as follows. The four billing options are not easy to explain via phone or mail. An in-person explanation of the four billing options was thought to be the best mode of interviewing, since this interaction would allow each customer to ask questions, learn the nuances and details of each of the four billing options, and then respond with an informed opinion. One on one interviews were chosen, where each customer is interviewed separately (vs. in a group setting, to allow customers to ask any and all questions and get individualized attention). This process insured customer understanding and limited bias or influence that sometimes can occur with a focus group. The advantage of this approach is the quality of customer understanding and the quality of customer opinions. The disadvantage is the high cost of individually interviewing customers. ULH&P wanted to recruit at least 30 to customers to insure the statistical precision of the quantitative results. Above 30, we are statistically insured that the central limit theorem is sufficiently asymptotic to draw meaningful conclusions. Above 50, the costs of added customer interviews begin to escalate beyond the budget and are likely to provide less and less new information. Hence, a target goal of 50 was established, knowing at the time that several customers would not show up on the day of the interview for whatever reasons. In the end, 42 customers did participate.

- e. The age and income breakdowns are provided below for the research sample.

Age
18-29	3	7.1%
30-39	7	16.7%
40-49	8	19.0%
50-59	21	50.0%
60-64	3	7.1%
Income
Under $25,000	7	16.7%
$25,000 - $50,000	20	47.6%
$50,000 - $75,000	10	23.8%
$75,000 - $100,000	4	9.5%
$100,000 +	1	2.4%

- f. Most customers that completed the interview received $40 for their participation. There were eight customers that volunteered to “float” their participation time, which means that the research agency could call on them anytime to participate in the event that another customer did not show for their scheduled interview. These “floater” participants were compensated for their inconvenience with $65.

KyPSC Staff Third Set Data Requests
ULH&P Case No. 2004-00503
Date Received: July 13, 2005
Response Due Date: July 22, 2005

KyPSC-DR-03-003

REQUEST:

3. Refer to page 4 of the Supplemental Filing where ULH&P discusses (1) the small increase in energy usage that is expected to increase as a result of the fixed bill and (2) the fact that during proposed three-year pilot period, it expects to have excess generating capacity.
  - a. The nature of this discussion indicates that ULH&P believes that increased energy usage will be beneficial to customers and that potential increases in peak demand resulting from the fixed bill program are immaterial. What impact will increase in energy sales or peak demand resulting from a fixed bill program have on ULH&P's ability to make the off-system sales that it is to share with ratepayers pursuant to the provisions ordered in Case No. 2003-00252?<sup>1</sup> Explain the response.
  - b. How can ULH&P demonstrate to the Commission that the fixed bill program will not negatively impact the benefits from off-system sales that are in inure to ratepayers under the provision of Case No. 2003-00252.

RESPONSE:

- a. The expected increase in energy usage and peak demand from the fixed bill rate offering is expected to be small and should have minimal effect on the level of off-system sales. The incremental annual electric usage from the fixed bill rate offering is projected to be 7,200 MWH, once the program is fully operational (5% X (12,000 kwh/customer/year) X 12,000 fixed bill customers =7,200 MWH). This is a very small level of sales relative to the volumes associated with off-system sales.
- b. Using the estimated 7,200 MWH incremental sales, and assuming an off-system sales margin of $10/mwh, the estimated reduction in off-system sales margin would be $72,000, half of which would go to ratepayers. The impact of these sales on ratepayers is certainly small, and ULH&P believes that this financial value is certainly worth 1) the value derived by Fixed Bill customers who value the reduction in bill volatility, and 2) the increase in customer satisfaction among non-participants who understand that they now have more choices.

REQUEST:

4. Refer to page 5 of the Supplemental Filing, specifically, the discussion of the study by Gulf Power on the impact of a fixed bill program on customer usage.
  - a. Has anything changed since the submission of the Supplemental Filing vis-a'-vis the Gulf Power study being the only information available on the subject of the impact of a fixed bill program on customer usage?
  - b. If the limited results of the Gulf Power study are the only results to which ULH&P can cite on the fixed bill programs of other utilities, explain how citing this study addresses the concerns expressed by the Commission in Case No. 2004-00330<sup>1</sup> concerning the need for meaningful results of other programs that demonstrate that fixed bill programs will not adversely impact customers. (Underline added).

RESPONSE:

- a. No. Nothing has changed.
- b. ULH&P also relied on the usage results of the PSI Pilot Study, which yielded similar findings regarding the expected usage increase. This study did not cover gas usage, but did provide some insight into increased usage for winter heating (albeit for electric, and not gas). If customers respond similarly, in terms of increased comfort in the winter, then the expected usage increases should be comparable for either gas heating or electric heating.

REQUEST:

5. Refer to the Supplemental Filing, Attachment A, pages 2 through 6 of 13.
  - a. One of the dislikes cited on pages 2 and 3 of 13 for the annual and quarterly budget bill options was "only want to pay for actual usage." Explain why customers would have the perception they were paying for something other than their actual usage under the annual or quarterly budget bill options.
  - b. Refer to page 4 of 13. Provide clarification of the following survey results. Is it correct that 95 percent of those surveyed thought the fixed bill option should be offered but only 36 percent said they definitely or probably would participate in the Fixed Bill option? If this is an incorrect reading of the results, clarify the results.
  - c. Is it correct that 40 percent said they definitely or probably would not participate in the fixed bill option? If this is an incorrect reading of the result, clarify the result.
  - d. Refer to page 6 of 13. Is it correct that the rankings at the bottom of the page show that the fixed bill option is the least preferred billing option?
  - e. Based upon these survey responses, shown on pages 4 and 6 of 13, explain how ULH&P concludes that there is customer support for a fixed bill option.

RESPONSE:

- a. ULH&P believes that many customers view their energy payments on a monthly level. Each month, they expect to pay for what they actually use. The budget billing plans allow for even billing with yearly or quarterly settle-up. It becomes highly unlikely that in any month a customer will be paying exactly what was used. In fact, the market research findings revealed that some customers who disliked the three even billing plans did so because they prefer paying for exact usage each month.
- b. Yes, it is correct that 95% of those surveyed thought the fixed bill option should be offered but only 36% said they definitely or probably would participate in the Fixed Bill option. In comparison, 98% of those surveyed thought the annual budget bill option should be offered, but only 31% said they definitely or probably would participate in the Annual Budget Bill option. Additionally, only 81% thought the Quarterly Budget Bill option should be offered but only 29% said they definitely or probably would participate in the plan. Of the three options, customers stated a higher preference for Fixed Bill. However, ULH&P recognizes that one of the key drivers of customer satisfaction is the existence of choices. Having more choices, especially where choices are few as in the case of a regulated product, allows customers to select the balance of risk and value appropriate for themselves. Attempting to select the single most preferred billing option, and then only offering that one, would (in this case) alienate at least two thirds of the customers irrespective of which billing option was chosen as the single most preferred one. Offering all four options satisfies more customers, and provides choices (increased satisfaction) even if those choices are not made.

- c. It is correct that 40% of those surveyed stated they would probably not/definitely not participate in a Fixed Bill option. It is also correct that 52% stated they would probably not/definitely not participate in a Quarterly Budget Bill option. Again, ULH&P's goal is not to provide a single most preferred option, but to provide a menu of options or choices that at least some customers like, such that customers themselves can choose which option is best for their household and circumstances at a particular time.
- d. Fixed Bill was ranked as the "least preferred" option; however, when looking at the results of the referenced page, 52% rank the Standard Tariff in the lower half of preferred options, compared to 55% (Quarterly Budget Billing) and 57% (Fixed Billing.) ULH&P's goal is not to replace any of the other options. Rather, ULH&P only seeks to supplement these options with new and innovative choices that at least some customers stated that they prefer over all others.
- e. Based on the survey results, customers showed a higher propensity to participate in a Fixed Bill plan (36%) than they would an Annual Budget option (31%) or Quarterly Budget option (28%). Yet, only the budget options are currently available to customers. Clearly, Fixed Bill appeals to a segment of customers who are looking for an alternative to the current billing options. Fixed Bill is another voluntary option available for customers to choose. If the study had concluded that only 2% or 5%, for example, of customers preferred the Fixed Bill option, then one might debate the relative value of offering the option. But with one-third of customers clearly highlighting as much, or more, interest in Fixed Bill than their current options, ULH&P firmly believes that Fixed Bill merits serious consideration.
