COMMENTS: I object to the WRECC - Ekpc plans to add new power lines across the Butler County farm lands because existing lines could be utilized and because a community would be affected - not just one farmer.

The Big Bend section (Logansport and Salem communities) is unique for it is formed by a large loop of the Green River; this shape gives a hilly ridge through the middle of the bend for homes and farm buildings above the flood plain, leaving rich farm land along the river.
This farm land would be split and greatly affected by new power lines. Besides ancestral homes like the Annis Farm and Dr. Morehead - Rander land, other in the 9,000 acre bend have depended on this soil for their living for generations. Also Indian mounds and remaining artifacts are still located across the farm fields.

Use existing lines and easements already present!
