2. Provide a list of all customers that pay each of the charges listed above.

Witness: Weeks

Response: See sheets provided in Response 1.

3. Provide proposed tariff sheets that explain the charges listed above and provide the mechanism or decision making tool that would determine the appropriate charge to new customers as they apply for service.

Witness: Weeks

Response: See attached tariffs. WSCK proposes to replace the tariff classifications included with the application, which were in place at the time of its acquisition of the company, with the ones shown on the proposed tariff. This consolidation of the classifications eliminates the need for the current classes and provides a uniform rate for similar service for all customers.

The rates in the tariff are consistent with the charges actually being billed for the two types of covered services – private fire hydrants and private fire sprinkler systems. The rates are also consistent with the rates included in the last rate filing of WSCK's predecessor, as explained in the letter of October 5, 2006.

Because WSCK cannot determine the origin of the classifications listed in the tariff filed with the application, the elimination of that tariff and the adoption of the attached tariff should remove any question about the service offered, the applicability of the tariff to each covered service and the rate charged for the service.
