Stephanie Stumbo
Executive Director
Kentucky Public Service Commission

Dear Director Stumbo:

The purpose of this letter is to provide a courtesy notice to the Commission that as of 9:00 a.m., Monday, June 2, 2008, Windstream Kentucky East, LLC ("Windstream") ceased the misuse of its Elizabethtown end office by Brandenburg Telephone ("Brandenburg" or the "ILEC") to route ISP traffic that otherwise should have been routed through AT&T's Louisville tandem. Further, as Brandenburg is aware, the level of traffic was at a DS3 level (i.e., well in excess of a DS1 level), although Brandenburg did not establish a direct connection for delivery of the traffic. Windstream, to no avail, repeatedly attempted to work with Brandenburg regarding this traffic.

The calls in question arose when Brandenburg's end users accessed the Internet by calling dial-up ISPs served by Verizon Business. The traffic had no impact on local, long-distance, or EAS traffic flowing between the ILEC and Windstream, including no impact to 911 calls which are routed over separate facilities.

Upon information and belief, Brandenburg appears to have routed the traffic through Windstream's Elizabethtown end office instead of establishing a business relationship with Verizon Business for the termination of this ISP traffic.. Brandenburg also denied reimbursement to Windstream for the use of Windstream's network to deliver the traffic. Brandenburg is aware that the NPA-NXX used by Verizon Business is homed behind the Louisville tandem. Therefore, Brandenburg should have routed the traffic from its tandem to the Louisville tandem. Instead, Brandenburg continued to route the traffic to Windstream's end office in Elizabethtown.

To remedy the situation, Brandenburg may perform approximately 15 minutes of translations coding to route the ISP traffic destined for Verizon Business through the Louisville tandem, or Brandenburg may establish a direct connection to Verizon Business for delivery of the traffic. However, Brandenburg may not use Windstream's Elizabethtown end office to deliver the DS3 level of ISP traffic to Verizon Business, which is homed behind the Louisville tandem.

Please contact me at 859.357.6125 with any questions regarding this issue.

Sincerely,

RE: Brandenburg Telephone Co. dispute with Windstream Kentucky East—Call Blocking affecting Local Service Customer of Verizon Access—Request for Emergency Hearing

Dear Ms. Stumbo:

We are counsel to Verizon Access, a competitive local exchange carrier. Verizon Access requests an immediate emergency order by the Commission to stop the improper blocking of Internet access traffic by Windstream. Windstream has taken this action in connection with a billing dispute with Brandenburg Telephone Company. This blocking has severe and immediate adverse effects on third parties by preventing America Online customers in Brandenburg's service territory from connecting with the Internet through their chosen provider, AOL.

This morning I received a copy of Daniel Logsdon's letter to you dated June 2, 2008. That letter alleges "misuse" of a Windstream end office by Brandenburg Telephone Company. It appears that rather than first bringing the dispute to the Commission¹, Windstream chose to block traffic in an effort to force Brandenburg Telephone Company to pay a disputed bill for transit service. This has created an urgent, customer-affecting situation. Verizon Access asks that the Commission convene an emergency hearing to consider the issues raised by Mr. Logsdon's letter.

¹ The Commission has made clear that a carrier considering disconnection over an inter-carrier dispute should bring the matter to the Commission well before any action which could interfere with the service of an end user. See Customer Billing and Notice Requirements, Case No. 2002-00310, Order at 7-8 (May 20, 2003).

Regardless of the merits of the dispute between these incumbent providers, the Commission should understand the immediate customer effects of what Windstream has done and what, so far, Brandenburg Telephone Company has failed to remedy. Brandenburg Telephone Company customers who use America Online ("AOL") as their Internet service provider are currently unable to access the Internet via a local call to the AOL dial-up number which serves them (via a number associated with the Elizabethtown rate center). That dial-up number is provided by Verizon Access. Brandenburg Telephone Company customers unable to access the Internet are likely to attribute the network problem to AOL. Brandenburg Telephone Company is also a direct competitor to AOL for Internet access service.

In its letter Windstream claims that Brandenburg could "remedy the situation" in approximately 15 minutes by routing the affected traffic to AT&T Kentucky's Louisville tandem. Given the ease at which this blocking could be ended, Verizon Access asks that the Commission exercise its powers under KRS 278.040 to enforce KRS 278.520 and issue an immediate emergency order to cease the blocking of traffic. Verizon Access also asks the Commission to promptly convene an emergency hearing at which Windstream could explain why it knowingly blocked the traffic of another carrier without first contacting the Commission. At that hearing Brandenburg could explain why it has not taken immediate action to restore the ability of its local customers to reach their Internet service provider of choice.

Please indicate receipt of this filing by your office by placing a file stamp on the extra copy and returning to me.

Sincerely yours,

Douglas F. Brent

INTRA-AGENCY MEMORANDUM
KENTUCKY PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

TO: Main Case File 2008-00203

FROM: J.E.B. Pinney, Staff Attorney

DATE: July 1, 2008

SUBJECT: Case No. 2008-00203, An Investigation Into the Traffic Dispute Between Windstream Kentucky East LLC, Brandenburg Telephone Company and MciMetro Access Transmission Services, LLC, d/b/a Verizon Access

On June 5, 2008 Commission Staff and representatives from Windstream Kentucky East, Inc. ("Windstream"), Brandenburg Telephone Company ("Brandenburg") and Verizon Access ("Verizon") participated in a telephonic conference. The participants are as follows:

The conference concerned Windstream's blocking of certain Internet Service Provider ("ISP") bound traffic from Brandenburg to Verizon that was transiting over Windstream's Elizabethtown end office. The blocking of the traffic resulted in the disruption of service for dial-up customers of America Online ("AOL") located in Brandenburg's territory. The stated purpose of the conference was to address the quick restoration of service to these customers.

Commission Staff inquired as to Windstream's basis for the disconnection. Windstream stated that it did not consider it to be a disconnection, merely a blocking of traffic. Windstream stated that it was caught in the middle of a dispute between Brandenburg and Verizon. Windstream stated that it did not consider providing the carrying of the traffic a “service” and thus did not need to notify the Commission of the blocking.

Brandenburg stated that it disagreed with Windstream’s analysis of the issues. Brandenburg considered this a matter regarding transit traffic. Brandenburg noted that it was in the process of negotiating an interconnection agreement with Verizon that would alleviate the problems of which Brandenburg complained. Brandenburg requested that Windstream cease blocking the traffic for an additional 7 to 14 days in which time a new interconnection would likely be executed.

Windstream encouraged reaching an agreement but disputed Brandenburg’s claim that the issue dealt with transit traffic. Windstream alleged that the traffic should always have been routed between AT&T Kentucky’s Louisville tandem and never through Windstream’s end office.

Verizon stated that it provided service to AOL and it was receiving numerous complaints because of the service outage. Verizon asserted that no technical restrictions prevented the traffic from being routed to it through Windstream.

Windstream, in response to a Commission Staff inquiry, stated that it had been aware of the routing for approximately 30 days and claimed that Brandenburg had represented to Windstream that the problem would be fixed shortly.

After a while, sensing no possible resolution to the issues, Commission Staff advised the participants that it would recommend to the Commission that an emergency hearing be held as quickly as possible. Commission Staff informed the participants that they would contact them if and/or when a hearing was scheduled.

The call then ended.

To address the Commission's concerns about the loss of internet access by Verizon-Access AOL customers in Brandenburg's area, Windstream has taken steps to remedy the loss of such internet access occasioned by Brandenburg's unauthorized use of Windstream's facilities. All Verizon-Access AOL customers in Brandenburg's area should have had their internet access restored at 5:46 P.M. EDT, Thursday, June 5, 2008. Windstream takes this action without prejudice to, or waiver of, any of its rights, defenses or claims against any party for all damages it continues to incur as a result of this continued unlawful use of Windstream's network.

Because the need for immediate action has passed, Windstream requests that the Commission cancel the emergency hearing set for 10:00 EDT, Friday, June 6, 2008. Further, in light of Mr. Selent's statement that an interconnection agreement between Brandenburg and MCI/Metro could be entered into within 7-14 days Windstream requests that the Commission direct Brandenburg Telephone to take all steps necessary to correct its actions no later than July 3, 2008. Windstream confirms that Windstream stated that it would allow service to continue pending the completion of the Verizon/MCI Metro-Brandenburg ICA, which Windstream anticipates would be completed within 14 days, based on the statements of Brandenburg's counsel, Mr. Selent, during the course of today's telephonic informal conference.

Mark:

Based on our conversation at or around 5:30pm today, Windstream states that it agrees to restore service to the Verizon-Access AOL customers in Brandenburg's service area. Windstream stated that it would restore service to those customers today. Windstream has also requested cancellation of the emergency hearing scheduled to occur on Friday, June 6, 2008 at 10:00 am at Commission Office's.

Windstream stated that it would allow service to continue pending the completion of the Verizon/MCI Metro- Brandenburg ICA, which Windstream anticipates would be completed within 14 days, based on the statements of Brandenburg's counsel, Mr. Selent, during the course of today's telephonic informal conference.

Commission Staff cannot and will not make any statements indicating that the Commission would agree to any limitations on Windstream's provision of service. Only the Commission has the power to make such determinations.

Commission Staff will notify the Commission ASAP the morning of Friday, June 6, 2008 as to Windstream's position and see what further steps the Commission would like to take place.

Commission Staff will notify the Commission ASAP of Friday, June 6, 2008 that Windstream desires cancellation of the hearing as Windstream has agreed to the restoration of service.

Mark, please respond with an email to Commission Staff and to all counsel to this action confirming Windstream's positions on this matter. Please correct any statements, if needed.

Thank you.

Subject: RE: Emergency Hearing 10am Friday, June 6, 2008

The purpose of tomorrow's hearing is to address Windstream's unlawful blocking of telephone calls originating in the service territory of the Brandenburg Telephone Company. The fact that Windstream now agrees, belatedly, to end this blocking, after having been unsuccessfully implored by the Commission staff late this afternoon to do so, is good news to Brandenburg Telephone Company and for its customers whose service Windstream disrupted for nearly a week. Whether the hearing is cancelled is within the sole discretion of the Commission; but, the cessation of blocking does not vitiate Windstream's offense. Additionally, Brandenburg Telephone Company disagrees with Windstream's characterization of of Brandenburg Telephone Company's use of "Windstream's facilities" as "unauthorized." There is therefore nothing for the Commission to order Brandenburg Telephone Company "to correct". And, Brandenburg Telephone Company has an e-mail chain, beginning several years ago, in which Windstream was a participant, and continuing through more recently, that will so demonstrate. In any event, Brandenburg Telephone Company reiterates through its legal counsel that it has been in fruitful discussions with MCI Metro with respect to both parties signing the same interconnection agreement to which MCI Metro agreed with South Central Rural Telephone Cooperative, and counsel believes that both parties have all but agreed to do so. The only issue between MCI Metro and Brandenburg Telephone Company appears to be the location of interconnection and the availability to MCI Metro of facilities from Brandenburg Telephone Company large enough to handle the traffic volume (DS3 or T1). So, as counsel said, he anticipates that an agreement seems likely quite soon. Brandenburg Telephone Company is willing to keep the Commission and other parties advised of the status of its efforts in this regard. Finally, Brandenburg Telephone Company notes that it is interested in resolving this matter with Windstream and believes that there is a relationship between this unfortunate situation and Case No. , in which there is presently scheduled an informal conference for June 10, 2009. (As the Commission is aware a joint motion has just been filed seeking to postpone this informal conference for a short time.) In conclusion, Brandenburg Telephone Company will be in Frankfort tomorrow if the Commission

Subject: Verizon-Brandenburg Negotiations

JEB:

The unauthorized use of Windstream's network continues in violation of industry routing protocols, as well as the Commission's own precedent for establishment of direct facilities for traffic exceeding a DS1 level. Brandenburg improperly continues to route a DS3 level of calls over EAS trunks to Windstream's Elizabethtown End-Office. These calls, which are not destined for Windstream's network or facilities located behind Windstream's network, can and should be immediately routed to the Louisville tandem. Windstream intends to hold all culpable parties responsible for damages with respect to the continued misappropriation of Windstream's facilities. Currently, Windstream estimates that in addition to past damages it continues to incur damages of at least $500 per day that the unauthorized routing is allowed to continue.

Windstream is not a party to or otherwise privy to the negotiations between MCI/Metro and Brandenburg. Nevertheless, almost two weeks have elapsed since Brandenburg expressly stated on June 5, 2008 that an interconnection agreement with MCI/Metro was imminent and could be reached within 7-14 days. If an agreement is not reached by June 19, 2008 (fourteen days from June 5, 2008), Windstream requests the Commission to use its full authority, including penalties or Commission-ordered expedited mediation with MCI/Metro, to force Brandenburg to take all steps necessary to cease the improper use of Windstream's facilities no later than noon on July 3, 2008 - which is twice the length of time Brandenburg stated was necessary to finalize its agreement with MCI/Metro.

Jeb,

After the June 5 phone conference among the carriers and the PSC staff, Verizon Business ("VZB") made a proposal to Brandenburg and sent it directly to the company by email on Friday, June 6. VZB proposed a 50/50 split of the total expense for interconnection and a bill and keep arrangement for the traffic originating from Brandenburg's customers in Radcliff. Under this proposal VZB would accept the traffic at the Windstream tandem in Elizabethtown. However, VZB has been willing to accept the traffic at the BellSouth tandem in Louisville, under the same arrangement, i.e. split of the expense for total expense for interconnection and bill and keep for the traffic.

Brandenburg rejected this proposal.

On June 5, counsel for Brandenburg had contacted me and asked that we stay in touch concerning negotiations between the companies. Accordingly, we had calls on June 12 and June 18. During both calls we discussed VZB's proposal. VZB's in-house interconnection attorney, John Monroe, participated in the call on June 12.

On June 19 counsel to Brandenburg stated that the VZB proposal was not acceptable. In addition, counsel to Brandenburg stated that in the near future Brandenburg would make changes in its network to prevent its customers from dialing the VZB numbers on a local basis. Such a change would be unlawful, and would interfere with Radcliff customers' ability to access AOL.

Gentlemen,

Rather than try to schedule a teleconference, I believe it might be easier to get an update on the status of the dispute via email. I would appreciate it if, at your all's convenience, if you could send emails, copied to all parties, regarding the current status of the dispute and the current status of negotiations.

Thank you,

APPENDIX G

APPENDIX TO AN ORDER OF THE KENTUCKY PUBLIC SERVICE
COMMISSION IN CASE NO. 2008-00203 DATED JULY 1, 2008

Mr. Pinney:

We apologize for our delay in responding to your request for an update on the status of the above-referenced matter. Nonetheless, we have been working closely with MCImetro's counsel to determine whether there is a possibility of some informal resolution of the dispute regarding the delivery of Brandenburg Telephone Company's end-user traffic to MCImetro. To date, the dispute remains unresolved, and it appears that the parties may be at an impasse with respect to the following two issues.

First, MCImetro disputes Brandenburg's obligation to interconnect only within its network boundaries. Second, MCImetro has claimed that it is entitled to reciprocal compensation for ISP-bound traffic. Brandenburg has advised MCImetro that a traffic exchange agreement incorporating these principles is unacceptable, and it has advised MCImetro that its demands are inconsistent with MCImetro's existing traffic exchange agreements with other ILECs in Kentucky. (For example, MCImetro's traffic exchange agreement with South Central Rural Telephone Cooperative Corporation, Inc. ("SCRTC") contains exactly the same substantive terms as those proposed by Brandenburg. It implements a bill-and-keep compensation scheme, and it requires MCImetro to bring its facilities to SCRTC's network at no charge to SCRTC.)

To that end, Brandenburg has advised MCImetro that MCImetro must: (i) sign an appropriate traffic exchange agreement within two weeks of yesterday's date; and (ii) establish dedicated trunks to Brandenburg's network for the exchange of the more than three million (3,000,000) minutes of traffic per month at issue. Brandenburg has also advised MCImetro that, if MCImetro does not do so, Brandenburg will -- in conformity with established industry routing protocols -- begin routing traffic from its end-user customers to MCImetro in accordance with the local routing number ("LRN") (which is a 502 number located in Louisville, with which Brandenburg has no EAS calling). This, of course, means that the traffic will be routed to the AT&T Louisville tandem, which also means that the calls will have to be placed as toll calls by Brandenburg's end-user customers.

Brandenburg and MCImetro continue to try and resolve these differences, and if the parties are able to do so, we will advise the Commission promptly. Brandenburg further notes that if MCImetro will execute an appropriate traffic exchange agreement, it is likely that the issues identified in Windstream's status report (from Wednesday afternoon) may also be resolved.

Thank you, and if you have any questions, please call John or me.
