Saturday March 30th, I received an email from Atmos Energy stating that my gas meter had been "misread/ under read" for the months of December - March and that I now owe them an extra 350 dollars. I was never presented with a bill or any type of explanation or proof of my actual gas usage I was simply sent an email saying that I owed $350 for their adjusted gas usage.

On Tuesday 4/2/2019, I went to the local Atmos office and spoke with their Operations Manager. Before he even asked my name he asked me if I would settle for paying half of my bill. I then told him that he didn't know how much my bill was since he had only just started speaking to me.

He then told me that some untrustworthy meter reader's had been running a scam and that while he wished that they would have used their brains for good, they were under reporting meter readings, resulting in under charged bills.

I asked him to look into my account and see that my gas bill always averages $40 a month and that if I would have been provided with an accurate meter reading that I would have adjusted my gas consumption even though the only appliances that use gas in my one bedroom apartment are the water heater and the heat pump. Our heat pump is not very efficient so we rely on electric space heaters to get us through the winter months. He said he would look into it and call me back the next morning. He never did.

I went back into the Bowling Green Atmos office on Thursday 4/4/2019 and asked to speak to the Operations Manager. He told me that he could not find my previous meter readings and that the bill was accurate and that I could set up a payment plan to pay off the remainder of the bill. I refused and he told me that he would deduct what he called a "Payment Fee" which he quickly corrected to a "Customer Fee" when I asked why I was being charged an extra 17.50 a month to be billed for bill. He then said that he couldn't understand me and proceeded to interrupt me and talk over the top of me. I told him that he was being rude and disrespectful and he told me that they was nothing he could do for me.

After I left his office I called Atmos customer service where I spoke with a manager who told me that Atmos had outsourced their meter reading to a third party company who she would not name, who had mis/under read the meters and that there was nothing she could do for me other than to set up a payment plan.

I then contacted Atmos's corporate office who told me that all they could do what set up a payment plan.

While I was speaking to the corporate office an Atmos Energy truck pulled into my drive way and a man got out and went to my meter. I asked the Corporate CSR why there would be a meter reader at my house after hours and she sounded alarmed and asked me to provide the number of the Atmos truck. I went outside to the truck and there was no ID number on the truck so the CSR asked me to provide the license plate number and I did. She also asked me to get the name of the Meter Reader, who would not tell me his name. At this time it became clear that the Meter Reader was on speaker phone with the Bowling Green Operations Manager who asked him if he was speaking to Ms. Sperry. I replied that he was and the Operations Manager stated that he would be calling me immediately.

When I spoke to the Bowling Green Operations Manager he told me that the meter that was being read was my neighbor's meter and that they had been billing me for the wrong meter the entire time. He assured me that he would correct the error and that he thought "I would be happy with the results" and that he would call me in the morning with a resolution.

He did not contact on the morning of 4/5/2019 so I went to the Bowling Green office that afternoon with my partner Jacob McCormack, as back up. There we were presented with a letter saying that there had been a mistake in our previous reading and billing and that we owe Atmos energy $175.

When I asked for a detailed bill showing my gas consumption we were shown the previous bill that contained my neighbor's meter reading. When I asked to know the dollar amount for the gas I used in the past month I was told that they did not have access to that information that that billing was handled in Texas and that they could not provide me with that information. We were told that we would have to wait until we received a bill in the mail to know what our actual gas usage and charge was for the past month.

I was interrupted and talked over every time I would ask a question or make a point to the Bowling Green Operation Manager and I made him aware of this every time he did it, even on our way out the door as we were being escorted out. I have yet to receive an invoice with the correct gas meter and usage.
