REPLY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

PUBLIC SERVICE

COMMISSION

Ballard Rural Telephone Cooperative Corporation, Inc. ("Ballard Rural"), by counsel, and in support of its motion for summary judgment states as follows.

INTRODUCTION

In its response to Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment, the Defendant, Jackson Purchase Energy Corporation ("Jackson Purchase") attempts to create doubt about the issues, when there is no doubt about the law. The law forms the basis for this motion. The law provides the standard for providing summary judgment and, as a matter of law, summary judgment is appropriate when the non-moving party fails to present evidence of record to preclude the entry of summary judgment. See Hoke v. Cullinan, Ky., 914 S.W.2d 335 (1995) and Welch v. American Publishing Company of Kentucky d/b/a The Daily News, et al., Ky., 3 S.W.3d 724, 729-30 (1999). Notwithstanding Jackson Purchase's assertions to the contrary, its response does not highlight issues of material fact, but the lack thereof. The issues identified by Jackson Purchase are all issues of law which are appropriate for resolution by the Kentucky Public Service Commission (the "Commission") on Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment.

ARGUMENT

I. THE COMMISSION HAS JURISDICTION OVER THIS MATTER AND SHOULD EXERCISE IT IN THIS CASE.

Jackson Purchase contends that the Commission does not have jurisdiction over its proposed pole attachment rates. Jackson Purchase's contention is without merit. The Commission should exercise its jurisdiction and grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment.

As a preliminary matter, the issue of whether the Commission has jurisdiction in the present case is a question of law, not a question of fact. Therefore, resolution of this issue is appropriate on a motion for summary judgment. Second, the Kentucky Court of Appeals has "already concluded that the Kentucky statutes authorized the Public Service Commission to exercise jurisdiction over pole attachment agreements with utilities in Kentucky. The Public Service Commission is the natural state agency to consider the interests of cable television subscribers as well as the interests of the consumers of various utility services. The Commission has accepted that task." Kentucky CATV Association v. Volz, 675 S.W.2d 393, 396 (Ky. App. 1983) (emphasis added).

Nonetheless, Jackson Purchase argues that the Commission does not have jurisdiction because Jackson Purchase and Ballard Rural do not occupy a utility/customer relationship because both parties own poles. See Jackson Purchase's Response to Ballard Rural's Motion for Summary Judgment ("Response"), p. 6. Thus, according to Jackson Purchase, Ballard Rural could resolve this rate dispute by simply constructing more poles. See Response, p. 8. ("In our present situation, the rate actually could be made largely irrelevant if the plaintiff would attempt to achieve parity with Jackson Purchase in regard to pole construction and ownership."). The fact that Ballard Rural is also a provider of pole attachment services makes it no less of a customer. Ballard Rural receives pole attachment services from Jackson Purchase just as cable television ("CATV") companies do. The Commission should not lose sight of the fact that the impetus for this complaint was Jackson Purchase's ultimatum to Ballard Rural that it either accept a 460 percent increase in rates or vacate 3,292 utility poles. Ballard Rural is at the mercy of Jackson Purchase's monopolistic power just as CATV operators were prior to Administrative Case No. 251. The Commission should not permit Jackson Purchase to abuse its monopoly power in this manner.

Moreover, just as the Commission found in Administrative Case No. 251, constructing more poles is not the answer. "CATV operators do not argue that they should be allowed to construct pole line systems of their own . . . and we see no reason why they should." Order, Administrative Case No. 251, August 12, 1982, p. 6. Constructing more poles would lead to duplicative facilities which would mar the countryside, anger Kentucky citizens, and unnecessarily increase customers' rates. Rather than suggest that Ballard Rural construct more poles, Jackson Purchase should simply charge Ballard Rural its Cable Television Attachment Tariff ("CTAT") rates.

In a final attempt to persuade the Commission to refrain from exercising jurisdiction in this case, Jackson Purchase warns that the assertion of jurisdiction would lead to the revision of all currently-effective pole attachment agreements as well as the creation of a "new statewide bureaucracy" to regulate these agreements. See Response, p. 7. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Commission has already asserted jurisdiction over pole attachment rates, and developed a methodology for calculating those rates. Thus, utility companies would simply need to file their currently-effective pole attachment agreements with the Commission, or include their pole attachment rates in their tariffs. Accordingly, pursuant to KRS 278.040, the Commission should exercise its jurisdiction over this rate-dispute case.

II. JACKSON PURCHASE HAS NOT SATISFIED ITS BURDEN TO ESTABLISH THAT ITS PROPOSED POLE ATTACHMENT RATES ARE JUST AND REASONABLE.

Pursuant to the Commission's orders and Kentucky case law, Jackson Purchase has the burden to demonstrate that its proposed rates are just, reasonable, and non-discriminatory. See KRS 278.030 and 278.170. Jackson Purchase has not satisfied this burden; therefore, the Commission should grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment.

In its response to Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment, Jackson Purchase states that it outlined its pole attachment rate justification in the pre-filed testimony of Richard Sherrill. Significantly, however, Jackson Purchase's response does not make a single reference to Mr. Sherrill's pre-filed testimony. Instead, Jackson Purchase relies on "Exhibit B" to Jackson Purchase's response to the first data request of Commission staff. Exhibit B is of no more support than Mr. Sherrill's testimony for the following reasons.

First, Exhibit B was filed in response to the Commission's first data request, not as an exhibit to Richard Sherrill's testimony. Therefore, it is not part of Jackson Purchase's pre-filed testimony. Nonetheless, even if the Commission were to consider Exhibit B as part of the evidence of record, Jackson Purchase still would have failed to satisfy its burden to establish the reasonableness of its proposed rates.

Jackson Purchase alleges that Exhibit B "outline[s] a complex formula outlining how its rates for pole attachments could be justified via appreciation for various inputs, and avoided costs." Response, pp. 2-3. Jackson Purchase offers no evidence, nor does it even allege, that this complex formula complies with the Commission-approved methodology for establishing fair, just and reasonable rates for service established in Administrative Case No. 251.

In Administrative Case No. 251, the Commission held that an electric utility should calculate its annual pole attachment rates by taking the weighted average of a pole multiplied by its bare pole factor, less a specified amount per ground, multiplied by its annual carrying charges, and finally multiplied by the appropriate usage factor applicable to the utility requesting the attachment. See Administrative Case No. 251, August 12, 1982, p. 14. In addition, the Commission identified a list of factors that should be considered when calculating the various components of the aforementioned formula such as the annual carrying charge. Jackson Purchase did not follow this formula.

Rather than utilize the Commission-approved methodology mentioned above, Jackson Purchase created its own formula which adds 95 percent of the "weighted average installed cost attributable to [Ballard Rural]" plus 50 percent of the "installed cost of pole ground which is accounted for separately in Jackson Purchase's books" multiplied by the annual system carrying charge. See Exhibit B to Jackson Purchase's Response to the Commission's Staff First Data Request. Moreover, Jackson Purchase did not identify how it calculated the components of its formula such as the annual system carrying charge and the "weighted average installed cost attributable to [Ballard Rural]." Thus, not only did Jackson Purchase disregard the methodology adopted by the Commission in Administrative Case No. 251, but, despite many opportunities to do so, it failed to explain: 1) why it chose another formula; 2) why its formula is as good or better than the Commission's formula; and 3) how it calculated the components of its formula.

"KRS 278.040 gives the PSC exclusive jurisdiction over the regulation of utility rates and service and provides that the PSC shall enforce the provisions of KRS Chapter 278." Kentucky Public Service Commission v. Jackson County Rural Elec. Coop., Inc., 50 S.W.3d 764, 767 (Ky. App. 2000). "The utility has the burden of proof to show that the requested change of rate is just and reasonable." See Order, Case No. 2003-00284, October 16, 2003, p. 1. Jackson Purchase has failed to satisfy this burden. Accordingly, as a matter of law, the Commission should grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment and enjoin Jackson Purchase from charging the proposed pole attachment rates.

III. THE COMMISSION SHOULD ORDER JACKSON PURCHASE TO USE THE CTAT METHODOLOGY TO CALCULATE THE POLE ATTACHMENT RATES IT CHARGES BALLARD RURAL.

In Administrative Case No. 251, the Commission approved a uniform methodology for utility companies to formulate fair and just pole attachment rates. Jackson Purchase has not demonstrated why its CTAT rate should not be applied to Ballard Rural. The Commission should order Jackson Purchase to utilize the commission-approved CTAT methodology when calculating the pole attachment rates it charges Ballard Rural.

Contrary to Jackson Purchase's assertions, Ballard Rural is not attempting to force jurisdiction of this matter upon the Commission, nor dictate how the Commission should resolve the matter. Ballard Rural is simply pointing out that the Commission has already asserted jurisdiction over pole attachment rates and identified an appropriate methodology for calculating those rates after undertaking an extensive and thorough study in Administrative Case No. 251. Jackson Purchase has identified no rational reason why the CTAT methodology should not be applied to Ballard Rural. Rather, Jackson Purchase simply argues that the CTAT methodology should not be applied because Ballard Rural owns utility poles, whereas most CATV companies do not. This is a distinction without a meaning. Ballard Rural receives pole attachment services from Jackson Purchase just as CATV companies do. Utilities may not engage in "unreasonable rate discrimination between similarly situated customers." Order, Case No. 97-107, October 12, 1998, p. 9. Moreover, "no utility shall, as to rates or service, give any unreasonable preference or advantage to any person or subject any person to any unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage" KRS 278.170.

The fact that Ballard Rural owns some utility poles is insufficient, as a matter of law, to justify the discriminatory rates and service that Ballard Rural receives from Jackson Purchase as compared to CATV companies. While CATV companies cannot be charged more than Jackson Purchase's tariffed rates, Ballard Rural is left at the mercy of Jackson Purchase and faced with the lose-lose ultimatum of accepting a 460% increase in rates, or vacating 3,292 poles. The Commission should not permit Jackson Purchase to discriminate with regard to rates and services in this manner.

Ballard Rural recognizes, however, as Jackson Purchase points out in its Response, that its regular attachments occupy two feet of space as opposed to the one foot of space typically occupied by a CATV company. Therefore, with regard to attachments that occupy two feet of space, Ballard Rural would accept Jackson Purchase's suggestion that Jackson Purchase charge Ballard Rural twice its currently-effective CTAT rate on file with the Commission.¹ Thus, for Ballard Rural's regular pole attachments occupying two feet of space, Ballard Rural would accept a pole attachment rate of $4.54 ($2.27 x 2 = $4.54).

¹ Jackson Purchase's currently-effective CTAT rates on file with the Commission range from $1.75 for a three-party pole attachment to $3.10 for a two-party anchor attachment. In the interest of clarity, the rate calculations in this section of the brief will be based on the CTAT two-party pole attachment rate of $2.27. See Jackson Purchase's CTAT attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

With regard to attachments, such as drop lines², that occupy only one foot of space, Jackson Purchase should charge Ballard Rural its currently-effective CTAT rate of $2.27. These attachments occupy no more space than the typical CATV attachment; therefore there is no reason to charge Ballard Rural anything other than the CTAT rate on file with the Commission. Accordingly, with regard to pole attachments occupying one foot of space, Jackson Purchase should charge Ballard Rural a pole attachment rate of $2.27.

The rates of $2.27 and $4.54, respectively, are fair, just, reasonable, and nondiscriminatory as required by KRS 278.030 and 278.170. These rates are based upon the Commission-approved methodology pursuant to Administrative Case No. 251 and would prevent Jackson Purchase from unreasonably discriminating against Ballard Rural as compared to CATV companies. At the same time, the rates take into account the fact that some of Ballard Rural's pole attachments occupy twice the amount of space as those of CATV companies. Accordingly, the Commission should grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment and order Jackson Purchase to charge Ballard Rural its currently-effective CTAT rate ($2.27) for attachments occupying one foot of space (e.g. drop lines), and twice its currently-effective CTAT rate ($4.54) for attachments occupying two feet of space.

IV. THE COMMISSION SHOULD ORDER JACKSON PURCHASE TO REFUND $122,723 TO BALLARD RURAL FOR FEES COLLECTED IN EXCESS OF FILED RATES.

For the past fifty years, Jackson Purchase admittedly has collected pole attachment rates from Ballard Rural in excess of Jackson Purchase's tariffed rates. Jackson Purchase does not argue that these rates were filed with the Commission. Accordingly, the Commission should order Jackson Purchase to refund $122,723³ to Ballard Rural plus interest accruing at the rate of six percent per annum.⁴

Contrary to Jackson Purchase's contention, Ballard Rural is not seeking damages from Jackson Purchase. Rather, Ballard Rural simply asserts the uncontested fact that Jackson Purchase has collected fees from Ballard Rural that were not filed with the Commission. "[E]ach utility shall file with the Commission . . . schedules showing all rates and conditions for services established by it and collected or enforced." KRS 278.160(1) (emphasis added). "No utility shall charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered than that described in its filed schedules" KRS 278.160(2).

The Commission may require utilities to refund any charges that are collected and that are not prescribed in the utility's tariff. See Order, Case No. 99-210, July 11, 2000 p. 2. Thus, Ballard Rural does not seek damages from Jackson Purchase; rather, it respectfully requests that the Commission disgorge Jackson Purchase of fees it has collected from Ballard Rural in excess of its filed tariff. Pursuant to KRS 278.160(2), the Commission should order Jackson Purchase to refund $122,723, plus interest at six percent annually, to Ballard Rural.⁵

⁵ Compounded annually, at the simple, annual interest rate of six (6) percent, the total interest on $122,723 equals $224,207.39.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, the Commission should grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment. There are no genuine issues of material fact, only issues of law which are appropriate for resolution upon a motion for summary judgment. Jackson Purchase has offered no rational reason for charging Ballard Rural pole attachment rates in excess of its CTAT rates. Therefore, the Commission should grant Ballard Rural's motion for summary judgment.

Respectfully submitted,

John E. Selent

AFFIDAVIT

Comes the affiant, Randy Grogan, and does depose and state as follows:

1. My name is Randy Grogan.

2. I am the Controller of Ballard Rural Telephone Cooperative Corporation, Inc. ("Ballard Rural"). My duties and responsibilities as the Controller of Ballard Rural are to account for and manage all monies received by Ballard Rural and paid by Ballard Rural to third party vendors. I am also responsible for assisting the company in monitoring its financial health.

3. I compiled Exhibit 3 to Ballard Rural's Reply in Support of its Motion for Summary Judgment. I prepared Exhibit 3 on the basis of records kept in the ordinary course of Ballard Rural's regularly conducted business. I am the custodian of those records.

4. Exhibit 3 is true and accurate to the best of my knowledge.

FURTHER AFFIANT SAYETH NOT.
