to whom it may concern: I live on the Kentucky river at pool 3. I feel I know this pool well. There has been very little water over the dam this summer at the Frankfort lock causing the river to become stagnant. what little water that has gone over the dam at Monterey is coming from Elkhorn whis is the waste water from Lexington. Other wise it would be dry. So how can the Kentucky river be a water source during dry weather unless they pump the river dry? The Louisville route seems much more reasonable. Rick Hardy
