Dear Sirs:

Regarding the water supply for Lexington and Central Kentucky, It is obvious we need the pipeline from Louisville because the Ohio River is supplied by the melting snows of the northeast. The Kentucky River gets its water from the mountains in Eastern Kentucky and with global warming there probably won't be much snow there anymore.

Most important is that the Kentucky German Water Company will raise rates if they build a plant and will send all the profits back to Germany. I think some people in Lexington want to personally profit for themselves and care little for all the people of Central Kentucky.

Sincerely,
Joan Robertson
