I am 100% opposed to the LG&E (EON) rate increase (Case Number 2009-00549) that would substantially raise the "base" rate for delivery of both gas and electricity. The reasons stated by the utility are in essence to collect the real amount of their fixed costs. It is my humble opinion that the utility, historically very profitable, must already be recouping their real and current fixed costs somewhere else within their rate structure. Thusly, if in fact you actually consider approval of this request, please determine where their current rate structure is over charging consumers to continually and profitably cover these fixed costs and reduce those specific charges to offset any other increases that you may approve.

Thank You.
