I am an LG&E ratepayer, for gas and electricity, in Jefferson County. I am a homeowner; my home was built in 1958. I object to the new proposed method of substantially increasing the flat rate for gas service connection to my home. Obviously, newly constructed homes should pay a higher rate, reflecting the true cost of providing gas service to them in far flung suburbs, but existing gas customers should not have to pay a higher flat rate service cost and thereby subsidize the suburban sprawl. Those of us who choose to live modestly and sustainably should not be penalized for our ecological ways.
Thank you for noting my views on this matter.
