I'm a farm and home owner and I have 3 separate bills, one for my primary home, one for my barn and one for my small farm house located on small farm that is not my primary residence. The two monthly bills I receive for my barn and small farm house are normally $12-20. Per month. Per what I can see from Nolin's proposed increase, it will double my bill for those two premises. I don't believe that is fair when my electrical use will not increase, but my bill will double. I ask that you please consider what that does to a small farm owner with a barn and/or a small house getting billed and we don't use much electric only to run our well or refrigerator and we heat with wood or other source of energy. Thank you very much for your time.
