Comments: I am completely against putting solar on farm land. All it does is ruin the land and is an eye sore for everyone. And what happens when the company goes belly up. We're stuck cleaning their mess. And I mean we as in our tax dollars.

Comments: I am a student in middle school and I just left the public comment for this project. I do not believe this project should go forward. If a family member wanted to farm they will not be able to. Also when will it stop. If these companies are starting solar projects, we have no idea how many more projects they have planned and ready to go. I think that worries me the most is losing the farm ground our community loves. If our Ag Businesses close down, this will impact our economy and hurt small farmers. I hope you will not allow this project to go forward. We see the Green River project and its negative impact on Irvington. I hope that when this company or the next company comes with a project for Breckinridge County you will agree that we have enough and not approve this or any other solar farm application.

To whom it may concern,

This county's backbone is the farmers and the countless hours they've put in. But we had one person who moved from Meade county where this is happening pretty heavily and bought a farm in Breckinridge county. I wonder how many may follow suit when thousands of more acres are eaten up by a monstrosity such as this. I also wonder if it will leave the area looking more like a barren wasteland full of solar panels that can't even be recycled. I work in Louisville because I'm providing for a beautiful wife that stays home with our five children. People tell me to move closer and I tell them that I live where people like them will one day retire. Please take all of what you've heard in this meeting tonight on 12-9-2024 in Hardinsburg, KY fiscal courthouse to heart and decline all these efforts to ravage the land of its soil and beautiful landscapes.

Sincerely,

Andrew Matthews

To whom it may concern,

The magistrate David Albright said that this can't be stopped. I'd like to know what he meant and why it can't be stopped. What does he know that others don't?

Sincerely,

Andrew Matthews
