United States Goes to War After Being Attacked By Japs

First War to Start With Attack on U.S. Territory

For the first time in the history of the United States a major war has started with an attack on United States territory. In all previous major wars beginning with the Revolution, all started over principles of government, or "incidents" in our ships upon the high seas.

At the beginning of the Revolution, we were British subjects and went to war with Britain, over a principle, best expressed, "taxation without representation."

We went into the War of 1812 because our reason was being "pushed" into the British navy. The Mexican War came about because of border disputes. The Civil War was fought to keep several of the southern states from seceding from the Union.

The Spanish-American War started because of the sinking of our battleship Maine, which we believed to have been caused by the Spaniards.

We became involved in the first World War because of the unrestricted submarine warfare started by the Germans, which resulted in the sinking of several American ships without warning.

In each of these wars hostilities started after a declaration of war, except in case of the Civil War, when the Federal Government never did recognize the existence of the Confederacy as a government and after which no peace treaty was signed.

After all these wars with honorable opponents, it remained for the Japanese to start bombing American territory, while still discussing terms for preserving peace in the Pacific.

As we take pencil in hand to attempt to record a few of the happenings in our community, the news coming over the radio of the declaration of war on the United States by Japan. Although the war clouds have been gathering for many months we surely had not expected such a sudden outbreak, and as our thoughts are so filled with the dreadful happenings it is hard to concentrate on the happenings of our peaceful community. Let us all pray and trust that peace may soon reign again in our beloved America.

ONE WEEK IN DEFENSE

Secretary of State Hull told his press conference Japan's position was "a force in every way—militarily, economically, morally, and morally—superior to the U. S. The U. S. is a weakling in low justice and morals." Mr. Hull said diplomatic negotiations toward a peaceful settlement of Far Eastern differences would be undertaken.

President Roosevelt formally asked the Japanese Government why it had sent land, air and sea forces to force China in far greater numbers than originally agreed upon with the Vichy Government of France. The Japanese denied they have violated their agreement.

Assistant Navy Secretary Bard, speaking in Norfolk, Virginia, said: "At present the Pacific is like a tinder box. The Navy is thoroughly prepared to face the fact that—in the regrettable event of trouble in the Pacific—that trouble will not be a minor one."

Editors Note: This was written last Friday before the attack on U. S. territory by Japan.

THE WHITE HOUSE announced last night that the Government had been instructed to see that the defense of the United States against the Japanese was not left to chance.

The Navy announced two additional British warships are under way repairs in U. S. ports. The U. S. Navy announced that 36 oil tankers have been released by the British and returned to their American owners.

Navy Secretary Knox told his press conference that the building program "is continuing to meet all projected needs." Since January 1, 1941, Mr. Knox said, the Navy has ordered $7,383,000,000 and nearly 500,000 tons of shipbuilding material for expanding shipbuilding.

Secretary said 38 combat ships were launched, 20 were laid down, and five new ships—including the 35,000-ton dreadnought Indiana—joined the fleet.

The Maritime Commission announced its plan "one ship a day" will be attained this month and that plans are under way to increase the program to two ships a day by next summer. Thirty vessels are scheduled for launching in December, 38 in January and 40 in February, the Commission said. Present objective is approximately 1,000 ships, the Commission's construction director said, "and the end is not yet."

The Labor Department estimated 300,000 more workers will be needed for ship construction by this time next year. The Maritime Commission estimated the total number of seamen will have to be doubled by the end of 1943.

THE HOUSE passed and sent to the Senate a bill appropriating $2,342,000,000 to expand the Army immediately to 5,000,000 men, include the recently mobilized Philippine Army; expand manufacturing facilities for critical weapons to double total production; increase the number of military planes; increase the number of aircraft carriers; and increase the number of aircraft carriers from 54 to 84 groups; convert 100 merchant vessels to transport carriers. The bill would bring the total outlay for defense since the fall of France to $67,900,000,000.

THE HOUSE passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would prohibit any subverting in defense labor disputes. It will strike for criminal, civil or jurisdictional issues, and will prohibit strikes that have not been called by a majority of the workers employed by the Government. The bill would require labor unions to register with the Federal and State Governments the names of officials and members and file financial reports. The bill would also require the National Labor Relations Board to order a 90-day cooling-off period in any strike.

THINKING IN THE COMMON VEIN

By CHARLES LEE MORGAN

WAR HAS COME TO US

With the suddenness of an electric spark war has struck home to the United States.

There is no longer a question of defense. The enemy has attacked with physical force. We are in until the finish. Every effort must be toward a successful conclusion and an honorable and lasting peace.

In 1776 our forefathers may have accepted so-called peace at the cost of slavery and tyranny. During the past few years nations have been guaranteed peace by the Axis only to find themselves looted and reduced to starvation. Today the world is too small for both freedom and democracy and slavery and tyranny.

In a modern world American ideals can be secured for ourselves only when they are made safe for all peoples. May our efforts find Divine guidance in the days ahead.

"Managing neck pain at work"

Neck pain and headaches are common complaints in people whose job requires them to sit at a desk during the day. Several factors can lead up to neck pain and small adjustments to your workstation can be a good preventative measure. Women especially hold a lot of tension and stress in the muscles in their upper shoulders and neck. Chronic stress and poor posture can also lead to neck pain and headaches. Let's talk about some adjustments and changes that you can make that will help your neck pain before you end up becoming a physical therapy patient.

1. Adjust your computer screen and keyboard. Take notice on your head position when looking at the computer screen. Is your screen positioned directly in front of your line of sight so you don't have to look upward or downward? Is it positioned off to one side? If it is, try to reposition the monitor by stacking a book under it or just lowering or raising your chair height. Is your keyboard positioned where your shoulders are in a constant shrug? If so, consider a pull-out adjustable keyboard which allows your shoulders to remain relaxed. These small changes can reduce the strain on your upper back and neck muscles, resulting in decreased pain.

2. Avoid holding the phone with your shoulder and head flexed to one side. At our clinic, often patients will call and need to schedule or change appointments. This requires talking on the phone while typing at the same time. Consider placing them on speakerphone or investing in a headset to reduce your neck pain. For instance, if you habitually hold the phone with your head leaned to the right side, the muscles on the right side of your neck will eventually become shortened and can result in you needing a spinal adjustment.

3. Improve your posture while sitting. The first step is making sure you have a comfortable, supportive chair to sit in. If you sit with a relaxed posture where your low back is slouched, this will change your whole spinal alignment. Use a lumbar cushion to make sure you are supporting your low back and maintaining a slight arch while sitting. Pull your shoulder blades back as if they were going to touch. Avoid slouching your shoulders and neck forward. Tucking your chin and keeping your ears lined up over your shoulders will result in an improved posture and take the load off of your spine.

4. Take frequent breaks. If you are remaining in the same position for too long, your body will let you know by getting stiff or sending signals of discomfort to notify you to change position. If your neck feels tight, take a break by gently tilting it from side to side to stretch out the tight muscles in your neck. This will also stimulate blood flow. Roll your shoulders backward to loosen up the muscles in your shoulder blades and upper back. Get up and walk around to give your body a chance to improve blood flow and keep your muscles warm.

5. Invest in a pair of blue light glasses. Many normally just wear a pair of my leopard print blue light glasses, but they do help significantly. The idea of the lenses is to reduce the harsh glare from our cell phone screens and the computer. Think about how often we look at our cell phone.

If you have tried these things, but still experience neck pain or headaches, then talk to your doctor about physical therapy. A physical therapy treatment may consist of heating up the neck and upper back muscles, massage to reduce tight muscles and increase blood flow, traction to separate the tight vertebrae, adjustments to realign the spine, and specific exercises to regain your range of motion and restore strength. Stop by and see Matt or Katie if you are having neck pain or headaches and discuss if physical therapy is right for you.

Kentucky Dept. of Revenue sets 2023-2024 Homestead Exemption

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Department of Revenue (DOR) has set the maximum homestead exemption at $46,350 for the 2023 and 2024 tax periods. By statute, the amount of the homestead exemption is recalculated every two years to adjust for inflation. The 2023-2024 exemption reflects a $5,850 increase over the 2021-2022 exemption of $40,500.

To qualify for the homestead exemption, a person must be at least 65 years old during the tax period or classified as totally disabled by any public or private retirement system. The property must also be owned, occupied and maintained as the taxpayer's personal residence on the Jan. 1 assessment date to be eligible for this exemption.

"The last two years have presented many challenges, so together, we have faced a worldwide health pandemic and endured two major natural disasters," Gov. Andy Beshear said. "The tax savings available through the homestead exemption is an important way we can help protect the homes of our seniors and other vulnerable Kentuckians."

The amount of the homestead exemption is adjusted every two years in accordance with KRS 132.810 to compensate for changes in the purchasing power of the dollar. During the 2022 tax year, the exemption provided state and local property tax savings of approximately $258 million for more than 466,000 elderly or disabled Kentuckians.

"Through the homestead exemption, eligible Kentucky homeowners can deduct a portion of their property's assessed value," said DOR Commissioner Thomas B. Miller. "As a result, property taxes are assessed upon the reduced amount, saving eligible Kentucky homeowners hundreds of dollars in property taxes."

An application for the homestead exemption is available on DOR's website. This application must be completed and submitted to the property owner's local Property Valuation Administrator's (PVA) office no later than Dec. 31 of the eligible tax year.

The completed application can be submitted online, by mail, or in person. Eligible property owners should contact their PVA's office to learn the best method to use for local application submission.

Flu has killed 27 adults and two children in Kentucky this season

By MELISSA PATRICK
Kentucky Health News

Kentucky's latest flu report showed a smaller jump in cases than in previous weeks, but the jump in deaths was the biggest yet this season, showing the disease's worst possible outcome.

The state Department for Public Health said that 29 Kentuckians (27 adults and two people under 18) have died from the flu this season, with 15 of those deaths (14 adults and one child) reported since the last weekly report.

The latest report shows that flu activity in Kentucky continues to increase. In the week ending Dec. 3, the state confirmed 7,192 new cases, up from 6,378 the week before. So far, the total of confirmed cases this season is 23,101.

Most of the cases continue to be in Kentuckians under the age of 20. It's important to remember that the state surveillance system only includes lab-confirmed cases and does not require providers to report results from rapid flu tests, which means that the numbers are likely much higher than is reflected in the state report.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends everyone 6 months and older get vaccinated every flu season. It takes up to two weeks for protection to develop after getting the vaccine, so the sooner the better.

"I think the most important message is that the best tool we have is vaccination," said Dr. Nicholas Van Siceles, an infectious-disease specialist at UK HealthCare. "It will prevent you from getting very sick or ending up in the hospital. It will help protect your community. That's the biggest thing I can stress this season. It's not too late. If you haven't gotten it, go get it." The season runs until May.

Four of the state's 16 health regions showed increases in flu activity on the latest report. Counties with some of the highest confirmed numbers in the week ending Dec. 3 were Allen, 62; Barren, 20; Bell, 50; Boone, 238; Boyd, 82; Campbell, 127; Davies, 284; Fayette, 525; Floyd, 116; Grant, 81; Harlan, 89; Hart, 70; Henderson, 63; Hopkins, 112; Jefferson, 1,704; Jessamine, 69; Kenton, 235; Knox, 113; Laurel, 136; Madison, 98; McClacken, 84; Metchie, 58; Monroe, 56; Muhlenberg, 273; Nelson, 115; Pike, 296; Shelby, 86; Warren, 162; and Whitley, 161.

Ky. Division of Fire Prevention Reminds Kentuckians of Fire Safety during Holiday Season

FRANKFORT — The most wonderful time of the year can turn dangerous if you ignore fire safety. As you prepare for the holiday season, the Kentucky Division of Fire Prevention wants you to know that a small fire involving a Christmas tree can grow very quickly.

When picking, placing, and lighting your Christmas tree, follow these tips to increase fire safety:

- Select a fresh tree that has green needles that don't fall off when touched.
- Cut two inches from the base of the tree trunk before placing it in the tree stand.
- Keep all heat sources at least three feet away from the tree. This includes fireplaces, portable heaters, and candles. Heat sources too close to the tree cause more than one in every five home fires.

- Do not block exits or pathways with the tree.
- Add water to the tree stand reservoir daily to keep the tree hydrated.
- Use lights that are listed by a qualified testing laboratory and select the type appropriate for the location of the tree. Some lights are to be used only in indoor or outdoor settings.
- If using an extension cord for your tree lights, avoid putting cords under rugs and carpets, across doorways, or where they can be damaged or pinched.

- Follow manufacturers' instructions for all light strands and replace any with worn or broken cords or loose bulb connections. Almost one-third of home Christmas tree fires are caused by electrical problems.
- Never use lit candles with live flames to decorate a tree.
- Always turn off your tree lights before leaving home or going to bed.
- Remove dried-out trees from inside your home, and do not place them in your garage or against your home.

Additional fire safety tips are available online at <https://kdfm.ky.gov>.

Attorney General Cameron Announces Kentucky to Receive Over $14 Million From Final Settlement with JUUL Labs

FRANKFORT — Attorney General Cameron recently announced that the $434.9 million settlement with an e-cigarette manufacturer has been finalized and will provide over $14 million to the Commonwealth. The agreement settles allegations that JUUL Labs, Inc. violated Kentucky's consumer protection laws by engaging in deceptive marketing and sales practices.

Under the agreement, JUUL's first settlement payment of $1.3 million to Kentucky is due by Saturday, Dec. 31, 2022.

"Kentucky's consumer protection laws prohibit deceptive marketing and sales practices, and we joined this settlement to ensure underage Kentuckians are not enticed to make illegal purchases because of these advertisements," said Attorney General Cameron. "This settlement with JUUL provides over $14 million to the Commonwealth and requires the e-cigarette manufacturer to cease marketing their products to underage youth."

The agreement marks the end of negotiations between 34 attorneys general and the e-cigarette and vaping product manufacturer. Prior to settlement negotiations, a two-year, bipartisan investigation by the attorneys general revealed JUUL advertised its products to youth, knowing the underage purchase of e-cigarettes is both illegal and unhealthy.

Attorney General Cameron announced the tentative settlement in September and, after careful review, signed on to the proposed settlement on behalf of the Commonwealth in December.

In addition to the settlement payments, JUUL agrees to reform its sales and marketing practices by refraining from:

• Advertising to youth and depicting users under the age of 35 in its marketing materials; Selling flavored products that have not been approved by the FDA; Making misleading statements regarding the nicotine content of its products; and allowing website access without age verification on the landing page.

Attorney General Cameron was joined by attorneys general from Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Nevada, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Wyoming in the final agreement.

Guthrie, Matsui Praise House Passage of Bill to Reauthorize Newborn Hearing Screening and Intervention Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Brett Guthrie (KY-02), who serves as the Republican Leader of the Energy and Commerce Committee's Health Subcommittee, and Congresswoman Doris Matsui (CA-06) applauded House passage of S.4052, Early Hearing Detection and Intervention Act of 2022.

The House passed the Senate companion bill of Guthrie's and Matsui's H.R. 5561, Early Hearing Detection and Intervention Act of 2021 that passed the House December 2021 in a 410-17 vote. U.S. Senators Rob Portman (R-OH), Maggie Hassan (D-NH), Bill Cassidy (R-LA), and John Hickenlooper (D-CO) introduced the Early Hearing Detection and Intervention Act of 2022 in April 2022.

"This proven program helps detect and diagnose hearing loss early in children so that parents and health care providers can make early and effective interventions that give children the support they need to thrive. I'm proud to lead the charge on the House side to reauthorize this vital program, and I hope this bipartisan bill to support the well-being of young children with hearing loss is signed into law soon," said Congressman Guthrie.

"A child's first few years are critical for their development — and parents deserve all the tools to make informed choices about their infants care early on," said Congresswoman Matsui. "The Early Hearing Detection and Intervention Act gives families access to newborn hearing screenings and ensures that those diagnosed can access appropriate follow-up care and timely intervention services. I look forward to seeing the President sign this bill into law and ensure that these programs can continue to improve our children's health and well-being into the future."

This bipartisan bill to reauthorize the program for early detection, diagnosis, and treatment of deaf and hard of hearing newborns, infants, and young children now heads to the president's desk. This program started in 1999, and this legislation would fund the program through fiscal year 2027.

The Religious Corner

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Ga.

Throughout our lives, in our families, we share, again and again, memories of events which touched our lives and the lives of our loved ones.

The same is true of our lives as Christians. There are stories and memories that merit being shared again and again.

Following is one of those stories.

In the hymn "Tell Me The Story of Jesus," author Frances Crosby wrote, "Tell me the story of Jesus, Write on my heart every word; Tell me the story most precious, Sweetest that ever was heard. Tell how the angels in chorus, Sang as they welcomed his birth,

'Glory to God in the highest! Peace and good tidings to earth!'"

That hymn reflects how the story of Jesus began. In The Bible we read about His birth:

And while they were there, the time came for her baby to be born. She gave birth to her first child, a son. She wrapped him snugly in strips of cloth and laid him in a manger, because there was no lodging available for them.

That night there were shepherds staying in the fields nearby, guarding their flocks of sheep. Suddenly, an angel of the Lord appeared among them, and the radiance of the Lord's glory surrounded them.

They were terrified, but the angel reassured them. "Don't be afraid!" he said. "I bring you good news that will bring great joy to all people."

The Savior—yes, the Messiah, the Lord—has been born today in Bethlehem, the city of David! And you will recognize him by this sign: You will find a baby wrapped snugly in strips of cloth, lying in a manger."

Suddenly, the angel was joined by a vast host of others—the armies of heaven—praising God and saying,

"Glory to God in highest heaven, and peace on earth to those with whom God is pleased."

When the angels had returned to heaven, the shepherds said to each other, "Let's go to Bethlehem! Let's see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about."

They hurried to the village and found Mary and Joseph. And there was the baby, lying in the manger.

But that isn't the end of the story of Jesus; Biblical accounts and the hymn go on to tell more about Him.

The hymn did not end with the birth of Christ. It also speaks of His death — and His rebirth — with the lyrics: "Tell of the cross where they nailed Him, Writhing in anguish and pain; Tell of the grave where they laid Him, Tell how he liveth again . . ."

By reading The Bible, we know that hymn also reflects how Jesus died on this earth, only to live with His father in heaven and in the hearts of all who welcome Him into their own.

In The Bible we read in John 3:16, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

That's the greatest gift.
