To Whom It May Concern:

This community of Clark does not need an experimental garbage-coal burning electrical power plant to be located here and elsewhere in the state of Ky.

To Whom it May Concern,

The KPE project proposed for Clark County is heralded as an extremely clean and efficient power station. As a close neighbor of the site I would like to suggest the plant also be a model of low environmental impact. Power stations can be tremendous sources of both noise and light pollution. I am hoping the KPE project takes this into consideration in its design.

Trees planted around the plant site now could help mitigate sound produced by plant construction and operation. Environmentally friendly lighting could lessen the impact of the station on local insect populations and the night sky. Both of these measures could help retain the rural nature of area.

Thank you for the opportunity to voice my concerns with this project.

Sincerely,

To who it may concern:

We have lived in the Trapp area for 20 or more years. We have watched our children grow with this community and personally do not think we benefit from the J.K. Smith Power Plant at all. We especially do not want the out of state garbage to come to be burned at power the J.K. Smith power plant because of the pollution of the air, and possibly water. We moved our families out to the Trapp community to get way from the garbage, noise of traffic, and the over all pollution.

We drive Highway 89 everyday and we feel that any more traffic will lead to more damage to the road, which already has pot holes, breakage, and sink holes in the pavement. As it is right now the state road department does not seem to have the funds to fix our highway, even without the added traffic from the garbage trucks.

In many opinion we have the right to live and watch our children grow up in a clean, non polluted and overall safe and healthy community.

We hope you will take into consideration, the opinions and concerns of the people who live in the area.
