Dear Mr. Goss,

I am writing about the proposed water rate increase. This rate increase should be denied because it asks far more than is necessary to maintain healthy profits for the water company. This rate increase request is excessive because the water company wants the citizens to pay for its campaign against condemnation by the city. I believe that reason is obvious, and that is an affront to the people. There is no economic or supply reason that would require such an increase in revenue. The rate increase should be completely denied or granted only to the extent that the attorney general allows for reasonable profits for ordinary water service to Lexington.

Sincerely,
