Question No. 4

Responding Witness: Dale Gatewood

Q-4. State any suggestions or improvements you have for the update Commission Form described and attached as Appendix A to this Order.

A-4. Water not sold but accounted for as tank overflows should be counted as Other Water Used. The amounts of water are a known and measurable quantity.

Water not sold but accounted for due to excavation damages should be counted as Other Water Used. In many cases, this water is actually paid for by the offending contractor or excavation entity. This water is a known and measurable quantity.

The standard specifications for pipe, meters and various appurtenances on the water system allow a certain amount of leakage when a brand-new installation is made, as per engineering standards from American Waterworks Association.

Though this water is not known or measurable, an allowance for this loss should be made under other water used.
