- (b) the administrative agency and/or court in which the testimony or statement was pre-filed, offered, admitted, or given;
- (c) the date(s) the testimony or statement was pre-filed, offered, admitted, or given;
- (d) the identifying number for the case or proceeding in which the testimony

(a) the jurisdiction in which the testimony, statement or analysis was pre-filed, offered, given, or admitted into the record;

(b) the administrative agency and/or court in which the testimony, statement or analysis was pre-filed, offered, admitted, or given;

(c) the date(s) the testimony, statement or analysis was pre-filed, offered, admitted, or given;

(d) the identifying number for the case or proceeding in which the testimony, statement or analysis was pre-filed, offered, admitted, or given;

6. Please provide copies of any and all documents, analysis, summaries, white papers, work papers, spreadsheets (electronic versions with cells intact), including drafts thereof, as well as any underlying supporting materials created by Mr. Collins as part of his evaluation of the Company's Application or used in the creation of Mr. Collins' testimony.

9. Refer to Mr. Collins' testimony, page 9.

(a) Please explain what criteria needs to be met in order for Mr. Collins to consider a cost to be eligible for recovery via a tracking mechanism.

(b) Please explain what types of costs that Mr. Collins thinks are appropriate for recovery via a tracking mechanism.

(c) Please explain why Duke Energy Kentucky's proposed major storm deferral mechanism does not meet the criteria described in response to item (a).

10. Given that storm costs are inherently unpredictable, volatile, potentially substantial and are often outside the utilities' control, please explain why customers should not benefit from having any prior overcollections applied to a current shortfall. Explain why episodic deferrals, such as the one recorded at the end of 2018 (Case No. 2018-00416) is a preferable approach.
