Dustin Horn

Dustin Horn joined the Kentucky Rural Water Association in July 2020 as the GIS Manager. He provides assistance to water and wastewater utilities by helping them implement GIS into their daily routines and workflows. Having a simple, but robust GIS can provide huge benefits in system planning, maintenance, and asset management.

Prior to working at the Kentucky Rural Water Association, Dustin received his Bachelor's Degree in Geographic Information Science from Western Kentucky University. Upon graduation, he was chosen as one of fifty nationwide to participate in a student assistantship program for the 2012 Esri User Conference.

He began his professional career at the Green River Area Development District (GRADD), where he acted as the GIS analyst for various projects which included focusing much of his time on the Water Resource Information System (WRIS). During his time at GRADD, Dustin GPS collected valve, meter, hydrant, and manhole locations for most of the water and wastewater systems in the region. He also worked diligently to build a well-maintained and topologically sound GIS for the region.

After working at GRADD for 5.5 years, Dustin took a job with the Kentucky Infrastructure Authority where he continued working with and managing the WRIS. While there, one of his primary functions was the ongoing coordination of 15 Area Development Districts (ADDs) to provide the best data possible to support the WRIS. He developed a public facing dashboard that showcases the funding needs in Kentucky using data aggregated from the WRIS. This project won a Special Achievement in GIS award from Esri at the 2019 User Conference. While at KIA, he also helped re-conceptualize the way GIS data would be provided, reviewed, and updated by the ADDs.

Dustin resides with his family in Georgetown, KY.

Rusty Anderson:

Job Title\Affiliation: Owner of TerraGraphics, LLC

Past Experience: Rusty has over 25 years of experience in GPS/GIS working at the state, regional, and city/county levels of government. Rusty spent 12 years at Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA) managing the Water Resource Information System (WRIS). In this role he worked closely with the Kentucky Area Development Districts to support their efforts in updating and maintaining the WRIS. Rusty was integral in providing GPS services to a large number of water and wastewater utilities throughout Kentucky as KIA expanded their GIS data with GPS Data Collection. He currently consults on projects with Kentucky Rural Water Association.

Educational Information: Rusty has a BA in Geography from the University of Kentucky (UK) and has completed numerous levels of training for a wide variety of ESRI GIS and Trimble GPS Products.
