Brian and his son, Phil, work together to manage their farm in White County, Indiana. For years, they've raised crops from tiny seeds into ten-foot-tall corn plants. Now, they're looking at a new sustainable crop: clean, renewable solar energy to help their farm profit and bring revenue to their community while helping power America.

"This brings stability to our operation. It's diversification. In the world, every industry has to..."

Did you know? Solar projects are designed to withstand the weather, including snow and ice, in the location they are sited. The angular mounting of a panel allows most snow and ice to slide off the panels and onto the ground once the sun rises and begins to warm the panels.

Junior has been farming for most of his life. He and his family raise cattle, soybeans, hay and corn on their Michigan farm. Most of his corn is sold for ethanol production. Now Junior's family will be producing clean, renewable solar energy. It's good for the environment and his farm, by giving them options for how they can use their land in the future.

Did you know? Once a solar project's lifecycle has ended, the equipment is then reconditioned, resourced elsewhere and recycled where possible. The project land is also tilled to break the vegetative growth, enhancing the topsoil and helping return the land to its original condition.

You may wonder what happens to a solar site once a project reaches its end of life. In some cases, we replace panels with newer technology. In others, we begin the decommissioning process to return the land to its original condition, which includes removing above-ground infrastructure, like solar arrays and inverters.

Solar projects in the U.S. contribute an estimated $609 million in state and local taxes and land-lease payments annually. This provides farmers and landowners with a stable form of income and benefits communities who host projects by helping to fund their schools, roads, parks and more. The local impact of renewable energy goes beyond providing a cleaner form of electricity. The project will benefit Henderson County via an influx of workers who shop, eat and reside in our community during construction. This economic impact, plus additional tax revenue, can help enhance local schools, roads, parks and more.

There are many ways solar panels positively impact our community that you may not realize. Thanks to additional tax revenue, solar projects can help fund local schools, roads and other services.

Do you know how solar panels work?

When sunlight hits a photovoltaic panel, it is converted into electricity, which then flows through cables into power inverters, landing in a central substation. From there, electricity is connected through a transformer. Transformers increase the voltage and connect the electricity to transmission lines, so local electric utilities can distribute it to homes and businesses.

Peggy Johnson Shiver Williams Sebree Solar is taking fertile farmland and turning it into a field of metal and glass.... They only thank the farmer to take over their land!!!
Sebree Solar you make up your "facts" - with no basis in fact! You have found the money hungry local governments do not check the validity. Sweet for you - not so sweet the adjacent land owners who have to be the witness to these travesties.
You are enclosing a pond "water source" for our wild life.
For the love of money - you are destroying our county. For the love of money - our local government is supporting your destruction!
God forgive us!

10/1/2021 James Stokes	Cynthia Pugh a solar array is no more damaging to wild life than a corn field and a hell of a lot less damaging than the coal fire plant we already have.	Neutral
	For example, large-scale solar PV arrays need space – a lot of it. If not cited on brownfield sites or in deserts, this may require the clearance of perfectly useful land (or indeed the use of water bodies such as reservoirs) to make room for the panels. This can directly impact local ecosystems in the short term but could also have longer-term effects on the habitats of native plants and animals.
	Large-scale land clearance in preparation for a PV installation often results in soil compaction and an alteration of natural drainage channels. With little to no significant vegetation allowed to grow around the panels (as this would obviously cast shadows over the panels), this can result in a significant increase in soil erosion and surface runoff. Much like deforestation, this can be disastrous for local ecosystems over the long run.	Neutral

10/1/2021 Kristi Kae Scheller-Sanders	Cynthia Pugh you certainly have the right to live on us like solar farms, but I'd like to address some of the accusations you keep making about county government, both in this thread and on your own Facebook page:	Neutral
	1) County government did not "purposefully" bring Nextera here. Nextera and the other solar companies locating in our county are here of their own volition, initially to have the chance to win solar power contracts offered by Big Rivers Electric and Henderson Municipal Power & Light. Sebree Solar will be selling the power it generates to other customers.
	2) Once county government learned of the interest of solar companies to locate here and in other Kentucky communities, we passed an ordinance regulating their local operations to help assure they'd be good neighbors. That was done in December of 2019 and was reported in The Gleaner - https://www.thegleaner.com/story/news/2019/12/23/companies-have-been-eyeing-henderson-county-solar-zoning-now-place/2735332001/ Every subsequent public proceeding with solar farms has been reported in local media. So the idea local government has been trying to "sneak by" anything without the public's knowledge is false.
	3. The new solar ordinance the County passed includes, among other things, requirements for setbacks to keep solar panels a reasonable distance from neighboring homes; the placement by the companies of trees or other vegetation for screening to help make backyard views more pleasing; the prohibition of barbed wire on top of any fencing used. Here is the ordinance: https://ecode360.com/HE3160/laws/LF1242372.pdf
	4) The exact location of solar farms in Henderson County is almost entirely about purchase or lease agreements between the solar companies, which are private firms, and land owners, who have every right to use their ground for their own purposes, within the confines of the law, just as you do on your property. These deals were not orchestrated by local government. If you

In September 2016, federal biologists said about 6,000 birds die from collisions or immolation annually while chasing flying insects around the facility's towers.	Neutral
10/1/2021 Cynthia Pugh	AMERICA'S SOLAR FARMS have a bird problem. Utility companies have been finding bird carcasses littering the ground at their facilities for years, a strange and unexpected consequence of the national solar boom. No one was quite sure why this was happening, but it was clearly a problem for a type of energy that was billed as being environmentally friendly. So in 2013, a group of utilities, academics, and environmental organizations came together to form the Avian Solar Working Group to develop strategies to mitigate avian deaths at solar facilities around the US.
	"There was very little research about the impacts of solar on birds," says Misti Sporer, the lead environmental scientist at Duke Energy, an electric utility in North Carolina, and member of the working group. "What does it mean when you find a dead bird? Nobody really knew." But simply getting the data on avian deaths at solar facilities proved challenging.
	In 2016, a first-of-its-kind study estimated that the hundreds of utility-scale solar farms around the US may kill nearly 140,000 birds annually. That's less than one-tenth of one percent of the estimated number of birds killed by fossil-fuel power plants (through collisions, electrocution, and poisoning), but the researchers expected that number to nearly triple as planned solar farms come online. The link between solar facilities and bird deaths is still unclear. One leading theory suggests birds mistake the glare from solar panels for the surface of a lake and swoop in for a landing, with deadly results. "But that hypothesis is from a human perspective," says Sporer

Across Britain, solar farms are on the march.

Some 1,000 acres of rural land a month are earmarked for 'photovoltaic' panels and the miles of cabling that go with them.

The Government admits that more than a fifth of our farmland will eventually be lost to 'green' initiatives such as these.

Last week, The Mail on Sunday counted 270 solar farms under construction or waiting for planning permission around the country.

Environmental lobbyists argue that solar energy is a crucial part of a sustainable future, but they talk less about the growing doubts raised by scientists and angry groups of residents.

Because, apart from ruining the view, solar panels are also woefully inefficient at their only job – which is to generate electricity amid the cloud and rain of north-west Europe.

Then there is the question of disposal.

The materials the panels are made with have a life expectancy of less than 50 years and are difficult and expensive to recycle, raising the prospect of discarded panel mountains leaking dangerous heavy metals.

And with the majority of panels now made in China, there are fears – all too plausible – that some have been produced in forced labour camps, including those where members of the oppressed Uighur minority are imprisoned.

'A power supply that is always both unpredictable and intermittent is not sensible,' says Christopher Darwin.

Cynthia Pugh I'm in the log home just past you and they are going to be adjoining my property also. I talked to a couple from Poseyville that has been fighting a solar farm wanting to locate there. They claim that adjacent properties lose 15 to 30% of their value. Another concern is noise. If the panels track the sun, one bank doesn't make too much noise but multiply that by hundreds, it could be a nuisance.

11/1/2021	Carolyn Glenn	Why do you have to be so rude with your comments? Electricity prices escalated quickly	Neutral
		Minnesota's electricity prices used to be nearly 20 percent below the national average, giving energy-intensive industries in the state, like agriculture, manufacturing, and mining, an enormous competitive advantage relative to firms operating in other states.
		But that began to change when the NGEA was signed into law because it forced electric companies to start spending billions of dollars building wind turbines and solar panels to meet arbitrary government mandates. Electricity companies like Xcel Energy then raised the price of electricity to pay for the wind turbines and solar panels, and they even made a government-approved profit on top of it.
		Since 2007, Minnesota's electricity prices increased by 45.7 percent, whereas the United States as a whole only saw prices increase by 16.76 percent, meaning Minnesota's electricity prices increased 2.72 times faster than the national average.	Neutral

		Well if they do, it'd be a win, win situation, because it would create competition in farming, thus less farms(because the bigger more profitable farms will close down the little guy farms) thus resulting in less herbicides polluting our local environment. Plus generating solar electricity helps keep the price of grid electricity down along with the following benefits:
		1. Less Glyphosate in our environment.
		2. Less Cancer.
		3. Less land for Large Scale pollution from Large Scale Agribusiness like Tyson Foods.
		4. Less land for the bigger local farming aristocrats, who stick it to the smaller farmers here locally.
		5. Less of my Tax dollars going to subsidize Big Agribusiness, and the Large Scale Welfare amongst all the local farmers receiving government subsidies.

farmers in central Virginia's Louisa County got a glimpse of the much-acclaimed green energy future – and they don't like what they see.

Instead of the clean power they were promised, they are dealing with pollution – and lots of it.

Share the facts at CFACT.org: <https://www.cfact.org/2021/10/21/irate-farmers-blast-environmental-harm-caused-by-solar-array/>

Storm water runoff from Dominion Energy's Belcher Solar project has spilled into nearby Harris Creek, temporarily turning it into a raging river that has flooded land adjacent to the project causing widespread erosion.

A month-long investigation by Richmond TV station WTVR documents the damage the project has caused. To construct the 1,300-acre (just over two square miles) industrial-scale Belcher Solar array, Dominion Energy clear-cut trees and other vegetation on a parcel that is slightly higher than the surrounding land. And when the area is hit by heavy rains, nearby property owners suffer the consequences.

Bobby Marks, whose property has been in his family for four generations, is appalled by what has happened to his land.

"If I had done something like this to someone else's property, then probably [Virginia] Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and Louisa County would have me in jail or fine me," Marks told the TV station. "This big company comes in and you can tear up creation and nobody does anything about it."

Virginia's DEQ did slap Dominion with a $50,000 fine, but that's chump change for the deep-pocketed, politically well-connected utility. Company officials have also met with angry property owners in an effort to smooth

THE KINGDOM MINISTRY FOR THE GOD JEHOVAH AND JESUS CHRIST

📖 Luke 6:32

"If you love only those who love you, why should you get credit for that? Even sinners love those who love them!"

📖 1 John 4:19

We love, because he first loved us.

Jehovah has invited us to join his spiritual family. This family is made up of those who have dedicated themselves to Jehovah God and Jesus Christ (these people come from all nationalities and originate from places all over the globe) and not just found in a man-made organization, these people just follow Jesus Christ as their leader not any men (Matthew 23:10). Also this family is made up of those who have exercised faith in the Ransom of our heavenly King Jesus Christ. This spiritual family is happy family because they live by the law of love and all of us on earth today desiring to be future citizens of this Kingdom will be practicing love to all people on earth, even if they don't believe like you do, even if they are an atheist you show love and compassion to them. Those desiring to be future citizens of this Kingdom also preach accurate BIBLE TRUTH (not half truths but complete truth) and they proclaim with their mouth to others about their faith in Jesus Christ when they have an opportunity or when the spirit moves them to do so. So all those putting faith in our heavenly King Jesus Christ enjoy a meaningful life now (not by pushing books or slaving for men and FOLLOWING MEN (Matthew 23:10; 1 Corinthians 7:23) making their organizations rich, whether that for the watchtower organization pushing their agenda as you go door to door preaching their lies and putting money in their contribution boxes or the Catholic church and Baptist Church and other religious sects) that pass the plate and their preachers live in million dollar houses and mansions and drive $100,000 cars and their flock is suffering and yet their flock is taken care of them) but by My Tara's potato soup. The best I've EVER eaten!

Curious how solar energy is created? There are several key parts including the panels that collect the sunlight, a racking system, and power inverters that make the energy useful for residents like you. Learn more here:

Twenty years ago we were warned by Al Gore that if we do nothing to capture the sunlight and, also, if we continue using fossil fuel for our energy needs, the Earth and its resources will in jeopardy. We are essentially there. Thankfully there are many who see this as real and truthful and are making changes in the way they work, drive, farm and heat/cool their homes and businesses. May we see these as critical times. Surely we are willing to make necessary changes order to make environment livable and productive for those who follow us.	Neutral
2/1/2022	Wes Hutton	Livable for future generations?? When you take farmland up to place solar panels that takes the place of growing crops to produce food. How are future generations to eat?? If the City, County, and State Government want solar energy then have it placed on every building and house. The space is readily available and does not take from farmland that produces food.	Neutral

2/1/2022	Paul Hopper	Sebree Solar hi it wasn't a question it was a statement. Resident will not see any reduction in their utilities. Jobs will be for short term installation of the solar farm and a handful or less to maintain. If everyone residential and City and County had solar installed and fed into the grid. That would double or triple the amount of being fed into the grid. Free the farmland up for growing food and also put money back to everyone with lower utilities and not just money into the pockets of the leased farmland and elected officials and Sebree Solar which is in Henderson County not Union County nice way to come in off the radar so people wouldn't know.	Neutral
2/1/2022	Kara Melton	Karen Reynolds Waddell valid point. How many acres of roof could be used for solar panels at Walmart, Lowe's, Henderson schools, municipal buildings. How about water wheels on the river at every bridge to generate power?	Neutral

Solar energy emits no pollution and the overall impact of solar on human health is overwhelmingly positive. Modern solar panels are made of materials typical of those found in electronic equipment and are encased, so they do not pose a concern for the water supply or public health. It is if you are trying to wrap solar like Guthrie Solar around a small rural town of 500 preventing the town and school from growing. Numerous additional property value assessments have also found no evidence of decreased property values after construction of a solar farm, and report solar projects may increase property value and marketability. What's more, Sebree Solar will generate approximately 250 megawatts of clean, renewable energy. If you think your view is going to be degraded by a Solar Farm, and less concerned that a mass extinction event is currently underway from getting power in current ways your either selfish, or foolish, either way you really don't own anything on this earth. Mother Nature will solve your worries, with the same disregard of your feelings, as you believe are being trampled on right now. Mother Nature will kill off the virulence infecting it eventually because it doesn't care about feelings and who owns what property, it heals by making itself uninhabitable for species that don't respect its rules. It doesn't do any good for American people to worry clean air! Other parts of the world don't care! Sebree Solar please explain this: The pro-solar website EnergySage writes:

There are some chemicals used in the manufacturing process to prepare silicon and make the wafers for monocrystalline and polycrystalline panels. One of the most toxic chemicals created as a byproduct of this process is silicon tetrachloride. This chemical, if not handled and disposed of properly, can lead to burns on your skin, harmful air pollutants that increase lung disease, and if exposed to water can release hydrochloric acid, which is a corrosive substance bad for human and environmental health.

For any user of solar panels, this is not an immediate risk as it only affects manufacturers and recyclers. More disconcerting, however, is the environmental impact of these chemicals. Based on installed capacity and power-related weight, we can estimate that by 2016, photovoltaics had spread about 11,000 tons of lead and about 800 tons of cadmium. A hazard summary of cadmium compounds produced by the EPA points out that exposure to cadmium can lead to serious lung irritation and long-lasting impairment of pulmonary functions. Exposure to lead hardly needs further explanation.

Joan Hoffman this is exactly, right. I think that we are running out of time. We, all of us, have to try to do things to take the carbons out of the air and stop polluting our waters.

Look at their Guthrie Solar project and how this company is wrapping a town and school in missouri with solar preventing future growth. I hope you all are better off with these people than we are. Oh and the local rural town of guthrie and new Bloomfield see no electrical or economic benefit. The solar light on our flag at city hall benefits us more than their 700 acres of solar. Sebree Solar oh my! What a terrible response.

Tamara Lacer Denton and they lie about how it's going to benefit your community! Guthrie Solar has not told the truth since day 1. Tamara Lacer Denton in our situation with Guthrie Solar they plan to wrap our school and town. No energy benefit to our town of 500. Wrap the town and school and prevent us from expanding. They say it will help our caterers and hotels. We have one gas station...No stoplight in our town!

Tamara Lacer Denton look at new Bloomfield missouri map. The farmland north on the property line of school and west at the city limits. It's gonna lock is in. Oh and we see no energy benefits. We have a nuclear power plant 15 miles north of us on the Missouri River. Preying on small rural towns with no county zoning is what they seek!

		I AM NOT A JEHOVAH WITNESS (I AM ASSOCIATED WITH THE JW AND I HAVE NEVER BEEN A MEMBER OF THE "WATCHTOWER ORGANIZATION OF FALSE RELIGION") and I am not against vaccination but with that being said, I will not be willing or voluntarily taking your vaccine anytime soon (I will stick to other drugs that a more tested to my liking, never buy or trust a product when it first comes out because of the bugs) after all I thought herd immunity was 70% (we are over 70%) so why do I need it now? Because if the vaccine works why does it matter if another person gets vaccinated or not? because a vaccinated person can still spread the virus so why do I need to be vaccinated? Because let's be honest even if a 100% of the people get vaccinated, this virus is not going anywhere because animals are carrying the virus, so you'll continue to get mutated strains of this virus because they're always going to become resistant to the vaccine and you'll continually need booster shots (I know I haven't needed a booster shot for the polio, smallpox, or measles vaccines, and unless they're going to vaccinate all animals (good luck with that) we're always going to need these booster shots) I personally do not want to spend the rest of my fleshly life being a human pin cushion and lab rat for the government and scientist to experiment on me to see how their vaccines affect me. I mean I have no problem with you taking all the precautions you can, but if my immune system is working fine, I don't need to be vaccinated with a booster shot or anything, I do not need to put a foreign substance into my body because my body is fighting it off pretty well obviously, so I personally don't want the vaccine, although I have nothing against the vaccine as well, I guess I feel, if the virus does beat me, it just beats me, because if I die in the flesh, I will become alive in the spirit (1 Corinthians 15:44,50; Matthew 22:30) so I will still survive, I will just be alive in a different form when I'm resurrected.. but still living and existing even if 6,000 years pass before I'm resurrected, it will only feel like a blink of an eye, because when I die my brain just cuts off, and my brain won't cut back on until Jehovah God brings me back to life, because the Bible teaches there's no consciousness in death (Ecclesiastes 9:5,10) so if a person has faith in Not super happy about this 😞 😞

7/1/2022	Sebree Solar	Hi Jerry, thanks for your questions. Modern solar projects are designed to operate for at least 25-30 years, during which time they are carefully managed and maintained. We often replace aging solar panels with newer, more efficient technology to extend their useful lives. However, should there no longer be a demand for the project after 30 years, we will decommission it. This process typically includes removing and disposing of all above-ground infrastructure including solar arrays, inverters, concrete foundations and pads, and fences. It has reached parity with natural gas in certain regional markets.	Neutral
8/1/2022	Sebree Solar	Hi Michael, despite what you may have heard, solar energy causes one of the lowest impacts as it emits no air or water pollution. It's important to point out that there's a difference between the private solar installations that you might install on your roof to generate electricity for your home, and the type of project we're proposing with Sebree Solar. This project will feed electricity to the larger electric grid and can power tens of thousands of homes, creating local economic benefits including jobs and additional tax revenue directly to Henderson County. 11/1/2022	Sebree Solar	MYTH: Solar panels produce glare. FACT: Our solar panels are made with non-reflective coatings that are designed specifically to absorb as much sunlight as possible to maximize power generation, rather than reflect sunlight. You may wonder what happens to a solar site once a project reaches its end of life. In some cases, we replace panels with newer technology. In others, we begin the decommissioning process to return the land to its original condition, which includes removing above-ground infrastructure, like solar arrays and inverters.	Neutral

8/1/2022	Michael Gibson	Solar farms strip our lands of needed vegetation, causing increases in CO2 levels, and cost massive amounts of energy to manufacture. A better solution would be to require all commercial and industrial facilities to shift to roof mounted solar just to provide power for lighting within building. It would drastically relieve stress on the power grid. It would also prevent clearcutting what little vegetation is left in the US. Solar is feasible but only in the right applications and installations. STOP warming the planet with Solar farms. Haven't we seen enough damage to our lands from only sharing one side of the issue? 2/20/2023 Jon Skipworth	Sebree Solar I don&#39;t want to look at the eye sore . I&#39;ve lived on this farm most of my life. It will be almost in my front yard.	Neutral
2/20/2023 Kiran Patel	AJ Newman Author AJ we all have a different opinion i know for sure when cities-in India change law to have CNG power vehicle only for public transportation air got cleaner now puss for electric vehicles as I do use solar for my business on 41 strip I can vouch its all for bettering the life will their be after effect yes as everything else how to dispose solar panels that be new bussiness we can start ☺	Neutral
2/20/2023 Hugh Haire	What do you eat ?	Neutral
2/20/2023 Mike Lawrence	Hugh Haire So you eat a lot of soybeans and field corn?	Neutral
2/27/2023 Larry Majors	And what about deducting from that $609 million what you charge your customers for electricity.	Neutral
2/27/2023 Gary Coffman	Mike Lawrence I prefer my soybeans and field corn processed via hogs and beef cattle, which I certainly do eat. But for the aliens from the planet Vega, have you heard of tofu?	Neutral

1/9/2023 AJ Newman Author	Our world will only get darker, colder and dumber as people fall for these long con scams.	Negative

1/9/2023 AJ Newman Author	Sebree Solar yet you don't exist without government subsidies. Solar and wind are only supplemental power sources at best. If they were really viable no government subsidies would be needed and the scam artists in our government wouldn't have to ban coal and natural gas. The cheaper price of solar and wind would be the largest reason to make the change. Solar and wind cost more and most equipment and storage batteries are made with lithium and other rare earths from China. Our government won't allow mining on a large scale for those minerals. Plus we can't use disposable child labor to mine them like other countries do. Solindra and slave labor all over again.	Negative
1/16/2023 Jon Roland	I think it is going to be everyone's worst nightmare using good farm ground is the worst possible option all of these people pushing solar panels do not have to live with them shove them at the end of the county out of sight out of mind for most people pushing them .	Negative
1/23/2023 Ralph Beard	Selling the climate lie	Negative
2/13/2023 AJ Newman Author	D.J. Peach in general the government shouldn't give out any as in zero money- to anyone. PERIOD. To give out money they have to take money from another. Raising taxes on business is stupid and only fools ignorant people. NO Company PAYS TAXES. Their customers pay the tax when the government taxes them. That means the increase hit the mid income to high end poo people. The government is not anyone's daddy.	Negative
