Question No. 106

Q-106. In Excel spreadsheet format, with all formulas, columns, and rows unprotected and fully accessible, provide all workpapers not previously provided.

A-106. Original Response

To supplement the workpapers previously provided in Exhibit SAW-2, the Companies are providing a copy of the SERVVM database backup file. This file is only functional in its native format for use in the SERVVM software; therefore it is not being provided in Excel format. It was not provided previously as it is not a standard workpaper, it is very large, and it had not previously been created. But it would be necessary for anyone wanting to see the inputs used directly in the SERVVM interface. See attached. The information requested is confidential and proprietary and is being provided under seal pursuant to a petition for confidential protection.

April 17, 2023 Supplemental Response

In addition to the Original Response above, the Companies are providing two confidential Excel files to supplement the workpapers previously provided in Exhibit LI-6. See attached. The information requested is confidential and proprietary and is being provided under seal pursuant to a petition for confidential protection.
