Jackson and the Ravens stand alone with the NFL's best record

BY NOAH TRISTER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

A few days as an underdog brought out the best in Lamar Jackson and the Baltimore Ravens. The Ravens now stand alone with the NFL's best record after their defense swarmed Brock Purdy and Jackson weaved his way around and through the San Francisco 49ers in a 33-19 win Monday night. Not only did Baltimore prove itself as an obvious Super Bowl contender, but the Ravens also revealed a chip on their shoulder that seemed to fuel them in one of the most anticipated games of the season.

"Not to take away from the 49ers at all, because they're great all across the board, but we're going to come to play as well," Jackson said. "Our record not no fluke. We play ball, and we showed that."

Jackson was peeved over comments by reporter Mike Florio, who had said the 49ers would "kick the (expletive) out of the Ravens" if healthy. He was talking up San Francisco more than he was taking a shot at the Ravens, but it was easy to see why they took exception.

Baltimore (12-3) has been quietly dominant in its own right this season. The Ravens haven't trailed by more than seven points in any game. Two of their three losses came on the final play, and the other was on a touchdown with less than two minutes remaining.

San Francisco earned plenty of attention with blowout wins over Philadelphia, Dallas and Jacksonville, but Baltimore did the same against Detroit and Seattle. After all the debate about whether

Associated Press

Baltimore Ravens quarterback Lamar Jackson runs against the San Francisco 49ers during the first half of an NFL game Monday night in Santa Clara, Calif.

Purdy or Christian McCaffrey is best MVP candidate on the 49ers, it might be a moot point. Jackson is the clear favorite now, according to FanDuel Sportsbook.

San Francisco did finish with 429 yards of offense, but four interceptions by Purdy and one by Sam Darnold were too much to overcome.

"We play a brand of football that people don't want to play," Ravens linebacker Patrick Queen said. "Everybody wants to be out here cute, playing basketball on grass and stuff, and we ain't with all that."

WHAT'S WORKING

Jackson had help from his defense, which gave him a few short fields, and when Baltimore had the ball, he was the marvelous. The Ravens' running game has had better days, and dealing with San Francisco's pass rush wasn't easy. But Jackson looked comfortable throughout — except when an official fell in front of him in the end zone, causing him to go down and take an intentional grounding penalty for an early safety.

Baltimore scored only three points on its last drive of the first half, but it was a turning point. The offensive line was flagged twice for 25 yards, and there also was a sack. Undaunted, Jackson completed six passes on the drive and then produced a 30-yard scramble on third-and-16 that set up an easy field goal for a 16-12 lead.

After San Francisco

went three-and-out to start the third quarter, a good punt return and a penalty set the Ravens up in 49ers territory. Three plays later, Baltimore was in the end zone, and San Francisco never got within single digits again.

WHAT NEEDS HELP

The running game looked a bit less dynamic without injured rookie Keaton Mitchell. Gus Edwards and Justice Hill had 57 yards on 19 carries.

STOCK UP

Get ready to hear the name Mike Macdonald

a lot this offseason. In his two seasons as coordinator, Baltimore's defense has been excellent, and this was quite a showing against a fearsome offense.

STOCK DOWN

Any quarterback-needy team that shrugged its shoulders when Jackson was (sort of) on the free agent market last offseason. Yes, the Ravens could have matched any offer after putting the non-exclusive franchise tag on him, but in the event they didn't, another team could have pried him away for two first-round draft picks. That will seem a small price to pay if Jackson does in fact win his second MVP award in his first six seasons.

INJURIES

Safety Kyle Hamilton had another phenomenal game, with two interceptions in the first half, but his knee remains an issue. He missed 22 defensive snaps.

KEY NUMBER

7 — The Ravens scored on seven consecutive possessions following the safety, coming away with three touchdowns and four field goals.

NEXT STEPS

Baltimore hosts Miami on Sunday in a matchup that could decide the top seed in the AFC. The Ravens lead the Dolphins by a game in the standings, so a victory would clinch home-field advantage throughout the playoffs for Baltimore. The Ravens can clinch the AFC North even earlier if Cleveland loses to the New York Jets on Thursday night.

Putting Kentuckians First initiative removes barriers for area job seekers

Transitioning from justice-involved circumstances to stable living often involves overcoming multiple obstacles, including barriers in obtaining consistent employment. For instance, a 2021 study conducted by the Bureau of Justice Statistics monitoring more than 50,000 individuals released from federal prison in 2010 found that over a four-year period, only 40% of these former inmates held steady employment, and those who did secure jobs encountered difficulties in job retention.

In the Lincoln Trail region, the Putting Kentuckians First Initiative stands as a beacon of hope, setting the stage for success for individuals transitioning out of justice-involved situations. At the Kentucky Career Center-Lincoln Trail in Lebanon, where I serve as director, we have embraced this state initiative wholeheartedly, striving to empower Kentuckians with the tools and resources they need to achieve personal success.

Our one-stop-shop approach at the Career Center is designed to provide comprehensive assistance. We've forged partnerships with various organizations to offer a myriad of services aimed at facilitating a smoother transition for those seeking a brighter future. From substance and recovery programs to employment assistance, educational opportunities, healthcare support and vital documentation procurement, our goal is to break down barriers and pave the way for a more promising path forward.

However, success in this endeavor requires a commitment from those we aim to assist. Individuals must take responsibility for their journey toward self-improvement. This involves consistent attendance at counseling sessions, support groups and continued engagement with the Career Center to ensure their evolving needs are met.

The addition of a peer support retention specialist has been instrumental in our efforts. This specialist plays a pivotal role in assessing individual needs, conducting workshops and providing ongoing support to every client, addressing barriers and offering guidance along their journey. Our collaboration with Addiction Recovery Care/Destiny Workforce Solutions—Crisis to Career has been particularly fruitful, emphasizing the possibility of working while in recovery.

Central to our achievements are the partnerships we've cultivated. Regular meetings with our partners ensure a coordinated approach, where every client's needs and aspirations are discussed and addressed. Michael Uptegraff, navigator for the Putting Kentuckians First Initiative, has been a driving force behind this collective effort, ensuring each stakeholder contributes to the success of our justice-involved population. We also owe immense gratitude to our Marion County and Washington County employers for their commitment to offering opportunities for individuals committed to a new way forward.

The support from the Lincoln Trail Health Department and coalitions such as the Marion County Heartland Coalition and Washington County on Wellness Coalition has also been invaluable in providing resources and hosting essential events for justice-involved individuals. These collaborations have been integral to our success stories.

Being the first in the Lincoln Trail Region to be selected for Putting Kentuckians First speaks volumes about our readiness and commitment to the program's objectives. However, our aim is to extend this initiative's reach across the entire Lincoln Trail region, ensuring that as many individuals as possible have access to these vital resources. And though we are proud of our efforts so far, we are dedicated to expanding services to further address persisting challenges revolving around issues such as transportation, childcare and housing barriers.
