Save money on Medicare

BY LEGAL AID OF THE BLUEGRASS stretching Social Security dollars is a difficult job in part due to the cost of the Medicare premiums. It is important for people on Medicare to complete a benefit screening each year to see if they qualify for money-saving programs that will lower the Medicare premium and prescription drug costs. The Medicare SHIP

Program located within Legal Aid of the Bluegrass is Kentucky's only benefits enrollment center funded by the National Council on Aging. As a benefits enrollment center, Medicare SHIP can conduct benefit screenings and help people on Medicare to apply for money-saving programs such as the Medicare Extra Help benefit and the Medicare Savings Program. The Extra Help benefit lowers prescription drug costs and helps to pay the Medicare Part D premium. It also waives the Part D drug plan deductible. The Extra Help benefit saves an average of $5,300 per year. The Medicare Savings Program pays for the Medicare Part B premium saving $174.70 each month. Some people can qualify for extra insurance to pay the Medicare Part A and Part B deductibles, co-payments, and co-insurance amounts. To complete your free wbenefit screening, call the Medicare SHIP Program, a non-profit organization. Medicare SHIP is not an insurance company and does not sell insurance. For a benefits screening, please call, 1-866-516-3051.

The main lobby of St. Elizabeth Edgewood Hospital. St. Elizabeth had the strongest profit margins of any adult health system in Greater Cincinnati in 2023. KAREEM ELGAZZAR/THE ENQUIRER

Hospitals

“You don’t want to have your hospital booking negative margins every year,” Bai said.

“The last thing a community wants is to see its hospital closed.”

Only St. Elizabeth beat national median

St. Elizabeth Healthcare hospitals topped the region’s list in profits, with the strongest operating margins for any adult health system in Cincinnati, for the sixth year in a row.

At 4.8%, it was the only Cincinnati area hospital to exceed the 2.3% national median index, as calculated by financial firm Kaufman Hall in its National Hospital Flash Report. St. Elizabeth’s operating margin last year meant that it turned a profit of $104.6 million.

St. Elizabeth’s profits may be boosted by its position as Northern Kentucky’s primary health care provider, which has led some to argue that it has as a monopoly on the region’s health care market. Raising prices is easier if you’re the only hospital in the area, and research shows that hospitals with a regional monopoly have prices that are 12% higher than those that face four or more competitors.

Falling below the national median was TriHealth, with a margin of 1.8%, followed by Christ Hospital, Bon Secours Mercy Health, and UC Health, all of which reported margins in the negatives.

Operating margins often vary from year to year, because many factors, such as higher personnel costs and lower insurance reimbursements, can impact a hospital’s financial performance.

But no hospital wants to lose money. And over time, losses can take a toll. How long will a hospital be able to lose money before it runs into trouble?

“There’s no magic number,” Bai said, because it depends on how many assets the hospital has on reserve. These assets, which can take the form of cash or an endowment, help hospitals continue to operate when times are tough.

According to credit rating agency Fitch Ratings, 3% is the minimum operating margin for “comfortably paying the bills.”

James Buechele, a spokesperson for Christ Hospital, said insufficient insurance reimbursements paired with high inflation in recent years has worsened hospitals’ financial condition.

He said that while the cost of labor and supplies has increased because of inflation raising the cost of operating a hospital, insurance companies have not increased the amount they pay hospitals enough to cover those higher costs.

“Reimbursement for those services rendered has not kept pace,” Buechele said.

Among the hospitals that lost money in 2022 and 2023, Bon Secours Mercy Health and Christ Hospital improved their margins between the two years.

UC Health worsened from a loss of 4% in 2022 to 7% in 2023.

Heather Chura-Smith, a spokesperson for UC Health, declined to provide specifics on UC Health’s financial condition, instead describing the hospital as being “on a positive financial trajectory.”

“Our strategic approach is working,” she said, citing the hospital’s improved operating margins so far in 2024.

UC Health’s most recent financial statement shows that for the nine-month period ending in March 2024, the hospital’s operating margin – a loss of about 2% – was an improvement from last year.

Why surgery and insurance matter to the bottom line

How do hospitals make money? Bai says surgeries play an important role.

“Surgeries are usually pretty profitable,” she said, especially compared to other services that hospitals provide, such as births or emergency department care. “Usually surgeries have a higher margin.”

Bai’s point is supported by St. Elizabeth’s numbers: Not only is it the hospital with the strongest profits, it also has seen the greatest increase in surgeries since 2018.

With an 18% increase in the past six years, it topped TriHealth’s status as the hospital that performs the most surgeries in Greater Cincinnati in 2023.

TriHealth has seen a 27% decrease in surgeries in the same period. From 2018 to 2023, the number of surgeries performed at TriHealth fell from 50,473 to 37,065.

TriHealth spokesman Rob Whitehouse attributed the decline during the past few years to changes in the system’s partnerships with outside groups.

In 2021, Cincinnati Eye Institute physicians stopped performing surgeries in TriHealth operating rooms, which resulted in a decrease of 6,000 outpatient surgeries a year, Whitehouse said. And a new joint venture with Beacon Orthopaedics in 2022 meant that another 6,000 outpatient surgeries were no longer counted by the hospital.

Bai said other factors, such as competition between hospitals, also can cause the number of surgeries to rise and fall. Some hospitals, such as St. Elizabeth, may now be performing surgeries that other hospitals used to, which Bai considers part of normal “market share changes” for any area where hospitals compete for patients.

Still, surgery volumes may not tell the entire story. A surgery’s profitability depends heavily on how the hospital is reimbursed – according to their contracts – by insurance companies or the government.

“If you are paid per patient, then you have every incentive to prevent them from getting surgery, as long as other alternatives can make them equally healthy,” she said.

The opposite kind of reimbursement would be fee-for-service, in which a hospital is paid for every procedure it performs. “Then you have every incentive to do as many procedures as you can,” said Bai.

Whitehouse, for example, said TriHealth has adopted a strategy that’s focused on prevention rather than surgical procedures – in part because of its value-based care contracts with the government and commercial insurers.

This explains TriHealth’s decline in both inpatient and outpatient surgeries, he said, which dates at least as far back as 2016.

“We are incentivized to keep our patients healthier – through things like preventive screenings and better management of chronic conditions before they turn into worse problems,” Whitehouse said.

“This kind of activity catches problems earlier – before they need hospitalization and surgeries – and keeps patients healthier.”

New $1 Bladder Control Pill Keeps Adults Out Of Costly Diapers

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

Within the next 5 years experts say, “adult diapers may be unnecessary... padded underwear could be obsolete... and virtually no one in this country will suffer embarrassing leakages again!” Here’s why...

After years of painstaking research, scientists have announced a bladder health discovery so radical it could end America’s bladder leakage epidemic by 2029.

“This is a real game changer!” says Dr. Jennifer Sage. Some say, the newly released pill called BladderMax is going to threaten the adult diaper industry.

But just think about the millions of lives that will be saved from the embarrassment that comes from bladder control problems!

News of this remarkable pill called is creating a virtual flood of letters to the research company that developed it. One doctor says: This is the “holy grail for people with bladder problems!”

So Exactly Why Is Bladdermax Wowing The Scientific Community?

Even though this pill is extremely effective, it contains no drugs whatsoever.

BladderMax’s active ingredient comes from a natural edible plant source. It’s safe, as well as easy to use.

BladderMax prevents bladder leakages so impressively, that it has caught the action of scientists and bladder health experts all over the globe. It works like nothing else seen before. Simply take as directed. You can almost feel your bladder getting stronger. It’s just that effective!

“Experts predict, the data is so compelling... “Adult diapers may be unnecessary. Padded underwear could be obsolete within 5-years.”

“There just won’t be a need for them anymore,” he added.

Kegels In A Bottle

The real power of BladderMax lies deep inside it’s active ingredient. It contains a compound called phytosterols that prevents bladder leakages similar to the way pelvic floor exercises (commonly known as “kegels”) do.

Jennifer Sage, a leading doctor says: “With BladderMax it doesn’t take much to relieve your frequency. You just don’t have to go as much anymore.” The compound absolutely kills uncontrollable urges in just weeks after taking it. You’ll swear your bladder has grown in size and strength.

The secret is its ability to inhibit 5-alpha-reductase (the enzyme that causes bladder overactivity). BladderMax’s active ingredient helps calm and increase urine flow so your bladder doesn’t have the constant need to empty. Then, it strengthens bladder tissue to help the bladder contract and expand for better confidence and control.

Think about it. A pill that calms that “gotta go feeling”, as it rebuilds and tones bladder muscle. Incredibly, the leakages just disappear.

No More “Stress-Leaks”

If you leak when you laugh, cough, jump or do other physical activity, you’ll never worry about stress-leakages again. BladderMax stops urine from leaking during times of stress.

It’s pure magic. You’ll feel great, you’ll sleep great, and look great. And even be able to wear your favorite clothes without worrying about wetting through again!

Clinical Studies Don’t Lie!

The clinical trial results on BladderMax’s active ingredient have sent shockwaves throughout the medical community. The findings show it works to produce results scientists never thought were possible.

For example, doctors tested the active ingredient on patients who suffered with overactive bladder symptoms for years. The results showed users saw a huge reduction in sudden urges to go and embarrassing leakages in just 4 weeks. Plus, they had less nighttime trips to the bathroom.

In this same study, scientists had bladder sufferers take note of daily use of adult diapers, padded underwear or panty liners. The scientists then gave half the patients the active ingredient in BladderMax, with another group taking a placebo.

The result? The group taking BladderMax’s active ingredient enjoyed a significant reduction in daily protection use, while the placebo group saw an increase.

That means, the active ingredient in BladderMax not only reduces trips to the bathroom, but also reduces the need for bulky adult diapers, which is amazing.

100% Safe

What’s more, BladderMax contains no fillers, no binders, and it’s produced in state-of-the-art FDA registered lab facilities. It’s 100% safe, natural and won’t interfere with your regular medications. So you can control your bladder with confidence.

Ecstatic Users

“My bladder problems are 80% better than they were just weeks ago. It seems to be improving daily. I now use minimum protection. It really does work,” says Denise G., of Maineville, Ohio.

Impressed Doctors

“I have patients who wake up 4 or more times in the night to pee. After just days of taking BladderMax they report only having to get up once or twice at most. That’s why I’m now recommending my patients take BladderMax,” said Dr. Jennifer Sage.

“BladderMax’s active ingredient reduces the need for adult diapers and padded underwear. It’s shown in clinical trials to improve sleep satisfaction and quality of life. Many top doctors, myself included, consider BladderMax the greatest bladder control breakthrough in the last decade,” she added.

Forgotten eight: Major league ballplayers from Newport

By Marc Hardin

Kentucky has been the birthplace of more than 340 major league baseball players, with nearly 50 of those hailing from Northern Kentucky. Eight were born in Newport, according to Baseball-Reference.com, a database of baseball statistics.

In the annals of major league history, the Newport Eight stand as a largely overlooked ensemble of ballplayers. All hail from a bygone era. Kid Baldwin, John Dolan, Almazoo Jennings and George Miller carved out their entire careers in the 19th century. Rudy Hulswitt and George Textor concluded their careers before 1920. Tommy Reis and Frank Williams graced the field in the 1930s and '40s, respectively. Several played for the Reds. A few were catchers. Some became umpires.

Here's a closer look at the Newport Eight.

Kid Baldwin, star-crossed catcher

Clarence "Kid" Baldwin was the most accomplished defender among the eight. He led his league in caught stealing percentage in 1890 and twice ranked third in fielding percentage while playing other positions. Most of Baldwin's seven-year career – from 1885-90 – was spent with the Reds. He batted .221 lifetime. The 5-foot-6 Baldwin hit seven career home runs. He was a brash 20-year-old when he joined the Reds in 1885 but hit just .135 due in part to practice habits.

"Baldwin says the chances of some of the Cincinnati dropping dead or breaking a leg are very slim, indeed, and that while he is resting, he will join Tony Mullane in the grandstand," wrote Sporting Life in 1885. "He says there is no use to practice when he does not have the opportunity to play."

Baldwin once hit an umpire while arguing a call in a spring training game. He was out of baseball at age 25. He died at 32 in 1897 at Longview Asylum in Cincinnati after being committed by a judge of the probate court and was buried in the asylum's cemetery.

According to the New York Times, Baldwin was a "hopeless wreck from dissipation."

Rudy Hulswitt, starting shortstop

Hulswitt led the Newport Eight with 2,426 plate appearances over seven seasons from 1899 to 1910. Accumulating 564 hits, he maintained a .253 batting average. He homered off Covington native Howie Camnitz, who won 133 games. Hulswitt's defensive record is marred by a National League single-season record-setting 81 errors at shortstop in 1903.

Hulswitt played one season, 1908, with the Reds as the team's regular shortstop. He also starred for the Philadelphia Phillies. Hulswitt transitioned into scouting and coaching. In 1923, he managed the Danville Veterans of the Three-I League. After scouting for the Red Sox, he joined their coaching staff in 1931.

Alamazoo Jennings, one-game wonder

Born Alfred Jennings, he made one appearance as a catcher in 1878 with the Milwaukee Grays in Cincinnati. He had four errors and allowed 10 passed balls. In three plate appearances, he had a walk. There is no known photo. The only known depictions of Jennings are drawings. He later gained minor celebrity as an umpire, sports promoter and Cincinnati police officer. He died at age 43 in Cincinnati during surgery and is buried at Evergreen Cemetery in Southgate.

"As an amateur he played with the Ludlows," said Jennings' Nov. 10, 1894, obituary. "His title (Alamazoo) was bestowed by O.P. Caylor. He's carried it ever since the day that he accumulated more passed balls than any catcher."

Frank Williams, Negro Leaguer

Williams was a 5-foot-7 left-handed first baseman and outfielder in the Negro Leagues. He was posthumously acknowledged as a major leaguer following MLB's recognition earlier this year of the Negro Leagues' players. Williams, known for his nicknames – Shorty, Lefty and Wizard – played in 35 career games. He combined for 30 games in 1946 with the Homestead Grays (originally based in Homestead, Pennsylvania, outside Pittsburgh, and then increasingly in Washington, D.C.) and the Chicago American Giants. He hit .276 lifetime in 123 at-bats.

John Dolan, one decent year

Dolan, a right-hander, logged the most innings among the eight, totaling 286.2 from 1890-1895. His peak was 1891 with the Columbus Solons of the American Association. He pitched 203 innings with a 12-11 record and a 4.16 ERA. Dolan's five-year career spanned five teams, including a stint with the Reds in 1890.

George Textor, switch-hitting catcher

Textor played two years in the Federal League and got into 25 games. He hit .333 in limited duty in 1915 for Newark, where he was a teammate of future Reds Hall of Famer Edd Roush.

George Miller, catcher turned umpire

Miller's major league career spanned 17 games across two seasons seven years apart with the Reds. He hit .250 in 1884. One of his teammates was Hall of Famer Candy Cummings, widely credited with inventing the curveball. Miller also umpired.

Tommy Reis, the reliever

Reis's sole major league season came in 1938 with the Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Bees. He was 0-1 in eight appearances with a 12.27 ERA. He was the last surviving player who appeared at the Baker Bowl, home of the Phillies until 1938.
