Is there anyway to stop LG&E from increasing their gas and electric price?

I own a 1100 sq foot home and hardly use any gas and electricity but my bill is 200 bucks a month.

I cannot afford for that to increase, as it is I am a state worker and I might have to take 3 days off without pay this year.

I am lucky to have a job the way the economy is and I know there are many people out there far worse off than I, so if I can barely afford it how can they?

I know Kentucky has a program that will help you pay your heating and electricity bill, but it is limited to lower income families who can barely make ends meet, which is the way it should be.

What are they needing to increase rates anyway? They need to find another solution. How about they use some of the profits to cover their costs. Apparently that money is not being used improperly. They just increased rates a year ago. This must stop. It's not right that they have a monopoly on this community, it's not like I can drop them for someone else.

They are just like the water company It is ridiculous
