It seems AEP has already received approx. 50% increase in rates over the last five yrs or so. Just after the snow storm and repairs due to the damages they request this. It was declared a disaster area. They need to get refunded back by the Government, FEMA, etc. As Lexington and surrounding areas did during the ice storm earlier last year to make up for extra expenses. P.S. - They also may need to budget for extra expenses that may occur during times like these which are not the customers fault.
