To Whom It May Concern,

KY Utilities has already raised prices and hit people with a "environmental surcharge" and are now wishing to renegotiate the amount.

How many times will this kind of practice be allowed? They are taking the "cost of business" and passing it on to the consumer, and under the veil of an "environmental surcharge." If they don't like the guidelines under which they operate then maybe it's time to sell out to someone else that will, fairly and reasonably, run the company.

I ask the commission to please tell them that enough is enough. Vote no! They negotiated this unprecedented surcharge in 2016 and should have to stick with it. If these companies keep using these tactics how long will it be before your utility bills becomes more than your mortgage?

Regards,

Kerman Holland

Why would you agree to allow KU to raise rates? In other states companies are reducing the rates for consumers.

That was a nice statement made on the WKYT web site concerning the cost of utilities. What was left out ,(I am sorry) for continuing to let them raise their rates.
