Dear Commissioners

Case #2023-00092 KY Power Integrated Resource Plan Case,

It is outrageous that public utility CEO's receive compensation when they basically do no work.

The emphasis of all power companies should be on helping their clients reduce their energy consumption by the use of free energy audits and support for such things as insulation. The TVA has found this to be a good approach. What is the problem with the rest of you?

It is unreasonable to act as if we can continue to use a finite resource in a manner that is based on exponential growth. If you show me a CEO that is actually addressing that issue, then perhaps he might be worth a million a year. Otherwise, forget it.

Utility companies and extraction companies routinely leave damaged environments which they want the taxpayer to clean up while they collect the salaries, bonuses, appointments to other boards and stock options. I think you fail to understand that people are watching and we really are not stupid.

Sincerely,
Linda Dulicai
