Dear Public Service Commission,

I have some grave concerns about the building of the mega data center on Camp Ground Road in Louisville, KY. This natural gas powered mega plant will affect the entire area's air and water supplies. There needs to be some regulations in place to protect our communities. Noise, traffic, environmental and public health impact studies need to be required. There needs to be transparency on the design, how much water will be needed, how solar power could mitigate the demand for electricity, how the data center will affect the environment, and especially public health concerns. These questions need to be answered before the Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity is granted.

Respectfully,
Jan Martin
