I find it both odd, and strangely convenient, for KU, to withhold their notice of proposed rate hikes to their customers 30 days before sending out their letter, because once customers received the letter of their request of possible rate hikes, the 30 day limit to respond to the commission had expired. I don't see that as a simple coincidence. It seems like pure deception. Please consider the entire timeline.

Hello, this is in regards to Case No. 2025-00113. I disagree with the request of KU to raise their electricity rates to residential customers by 13.55 %. I, like many other people in Kentucky, are already having a difficult enough time making it month to month as it is. KU has recently done away with in-person meter readings and that alone should have saved them hundreds of thousands of dollars. Thank you for taking your time in this matter.
