Thank you for responding.

Just wanted to add another thing.

The power company sends customers tips on how to save energy and lower their bill which is appreciated. The problem is, if I follow their suggestions and save 20.00 on my bill, they are requesting a rate increase because they aren't selling enough electricity?? In my case, that 20.00 savings would have cost me 25.00 more considering my last bill and the rate increase would increase my bill to 45.00! So if I save energy, it costs me more in the long run. Doesn't make any sense. Thanks for your time.

Just wanted to say something I imagine you have heard many times. I am a senior citizen living on a fixed income. My last electric bill was 300.00. With the new rate proposal it will be 345.00 next year. New rates proposed for commercial and industrial users, will only be passed on to the consumer. So any rate increase will only add to our burden significantly. COLA gif social security was only 2.8 so you can see we senior citizens are getting farther and farther behind with our bills. Please consider this when making your decision. Thanks
