Comments:

I have viewed the YouTube video of the Crab Run solar project, LLC case number 2025-00276.

I have to agree with many of those in opposition of this project. I Believe more research needs to go in to the environmental ramifications of this project. I find it hard to believe that rain is going to keep these solar panels clean without someone having to power wash them, or find some other means to scrub them. What contaminants are going into the soil due to runoff of the solar panels and how is it going to be contained on that property and then what means are you going to use to dispose of those contaminants and in what farm or county in Kentucky is the recipient of those contaminants and at who's expense?

Our forefathers had the foresight to give us a republic government not a democracy, which means the majority does not rule when they are wrong. It means even though there's one that's right, he still stands being right and the majority cannot overrule what is right without violating the very constitution of the United States of America.

I believe this project needs to be put on hold until all the answers can be provided to the surrounding neighbors to this project and prove to them that everybody will win not just those with the investment in the project.
