TEMPORARY RULES AND REGULATIONS

I. RESTORATION AND TRANSFER OF GAS SERVICE (Continued) (T)

C. INVOLUNTARY RELOCATION (Continued)

In all instances, the property owner's right to the heating gas is superior to that of a tenant or tenant structure owner; but the tenant customer's right to processing gas is superior to that of the landowner.

D. TRANSFER OF GAS VOLUMES

A residential or commercial property owner may transfer volumes from one property, owned by him, to another property, also owned by him, provided:

- (i) Such transfer is accomplished within 24 months of last gas usage in the case of a residential customer or within 12 months of last usage in the case of a commercial customer;
- (ii) Applicant for transfer must have held title to the property at the former location at the time of the last service; and
- (iii) The existing structure must be demolished, or the structure modified in such way that a subsequent purchaser thereof will clearly know that such structure is no longer entitled to gas service.

Industrial volumes shall not be transferred, except in those instances in which the transfer is internal (i.e. within the plant or plants of the same industrial customer) and of limited duration for the purpose of offsetting curtailment.

E. SPLITTING SERVICES

The rule which shall apply to requests to split services (i.e. individually metered accounts formerly master metered) is as follows:

- (i) Splitting of services will be permitted for residential and commercial accounts as long as the total volume for the individual meters does not exceed the volume of gas used by the master meter and the load profiles remain the same. All
